BUILDING WAR LOOMS; STRIKES SET FOR TODAY

Four Tieups Called by Unions.

With the calling of strikes on four large construction jobs scheduled to take effect this morning, the long-threatened warfare between the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award and the building trades council was regarded as inevitable last night. Union leaders declared the issue was one of a closed or open shop—that union men should not work on the same contracts where non-union men, employed because certain trades had refused to work under the provisions of the Landis award, were working. They said that the strikes called are but the forerunners of similar action on all construction jobs in the city where similar conditions prevail.

Charge Award Violations.

Officers of the committee were equally as determined. In a statement issued late last night they asserted they would regard today's strikes in the same light as any other violation of the Landis terms. They "will move immediately to operate these jobs with craftsmen who are willing to work under the terms of the Landis award," they said. It was indicated that a finish fight would ensue.

The action of the building trades was decided upon at a meeting of the Building Trades council last Friday night. Yesterday morning a meeting of the business agents of the building trades unions, with the exception of the machinery movers, bricklayers, and several other minor trades, was held at the headquarters of the council. At this meeting a committee of nine was appointed to notify the workers on the various jobs to strike.

Brush Guards Assembled.

The committee first visited the United Mail Terminal building at Harrison street and the river. Here the guards employed to protect the non-union carpenters tried to prevent the union officials from entering the building.

After a short conversation the guards were brushed aside and the building mechanics were told to take their tools with them when they left at 4:30 o'clock and not to return in the morning. Practically all work was stopped on a job at Hermitage street and Jackson boulevard.

After a short dispute with a number of guards on Wieboldt's new building at Paulina street and Milwaukee avenue, the union leaders told the members of their unions not to report for work this morning.

According to Arthur Wallace of the Painters' District council, a fourth project, on the Woodlawn bank at 63d street and Woodlawn avenue, will be struck today.

"This shutdown will eventually affect all building work in the city," asserted Wallace. "This move had to be made sooner or later, so it's a question of meeting the issue now."

2,500 Teamsters Strike.

Twenty-five hundred members of the Excavating, Grading, and Asphalt Teamsters' union will strike this morning against a contemplated wage cut.

The strike announcement was made yesterday by J. W. Flynn, secretary of the teamsters' organization, after he had failed to reach a settlement in a conference with Michael Reedy, chairman of the Chicago Contracting Team Owners' association.

"Members of my union do not enjoy regular employment and when their wages are averaged up they receive only $20 a week," said Mr. Flynn. "The proposed cut of $6 a week for teamsters and a $9 a week slash for helpers is too much."

Members of the union do practically all the excavating work for building projects in the city.

Janitors' Wage Still Unsettled.

Following a two hour conference yesterday afternoon with James J. Carroll, who represented the Chicago Real Estate board, William F. Quessie, president of the Flat Janitors' union, announced that they were unable to agree on the selection of an arbitrator to adjust the wage scale for the janitors.

The wage and working agreement between the real estate board and the Janitors' union expired Dec. 31. In a new agreement the real estate board wanted a clause inserted whereby the Janitors would receive a compensation limit of $6 per flat.

Woman Dies of Heat While Other New Yorkers Shiver.

New York, Jan. 3.—While most New Yorkers were suffering today from the cold weather, Mrs. Esme Rimmer, 24, died of heat prostration. She was overcome in the hot room of a Turkish bath.

TRICKS IN ALL TRADES, EVEN IN SELLING OF FISH

Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 3.—Tricks of the trade in fish were described by Mayor Percy W. Wheeler in his inaugural address yesterday.

"I have seen harbor pollock split across the back and branded and shipped as mackerel," he said. "I have seen hake salted and branded as sea trout. I have seen skiny New England shore herring salted and sold as fine, fat Labradors."

"I have seen large pollock split down the back, salted and dyed pink and sold as ocean salmon. I have seen Kits of mackerel, each with a bottle of whisky in the center, shipped to Maine. You can't build up the city on a platform of smuggled booze and rotten fish."

On Nov. 10 of last year Mrs. William Mack Baxter, wife of the president of the Baxter-Stewart Motor company, fought and captured a burglar in her home at 527 Deming place and saved more than $30,000 in valuables. Yesterday the burglars were luckier.

Two men came to the apartment while both Maj. and Mrs. Baxter were away. They jimmied a rear door and provided the place. Sitting in easy chairs and smoking cigarettes, they calmly chiseled the door from a wall safe in Maj. Baxter's study, only to find it empty.

Seize Furs; Miss Money. But in Mrs. Baxter's boudoir they found $800 worth of furs, which they wrapped in parcels. They overlooked ten $10 bills lying in a bankbook on the dresser. They didn't overlook a lone half pint in the kitchen, however.

When Maj. and Mrs. Baxter returned home they found carpets torn from the floors and pictures torn from their frames. Hundreds of dollars' worth of silver in the dining room had been missed entirely, but the whole apartment was a wreck.

Recall Former Threats. The Town Hall police were notified. "Shortly after our last experience we got numerous telephone calls from people who said they were relatives of the burglar Mrs. Baxter captured," Maj. Baxter said last night. "In these calls we were threatened with vengeance if we prosecuted. Maybe that's the reason for the present visit."

Italian Stock Exchanges Closed by Bank Failure. ROME, Jan. 3.—All stock exchanges in Italy are closed and operations suspended pending government action for some sort of a moratorium which banks declare necessary because of the collapse of the Banca Italiana di Sconto.

2 AVIATORS DIE AT PENSA COLA. Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 3.—Lieut. Frank Sloman of Oakland, Cal., and Lieut. Elton C. Herseman of Weston, W. Va., from the naval air station here, were killed late today when their airplane went into a nose dive at 1,000 feet and crashed.

Lieut. Sloman was acting as instructor and Lieut. Herseman was making his first flight at the station, having arrived here this morning. The former, who was 28, is survived by a widow and ten months old baby. Herseman is survived by his father, W. P. Herseman of Weston, W. Va.

Baby Hengels Is First Child Born Here in 1922. George Clarence Hengels, 1923 George street, was given birth certificate No. 1, series of 1922, by health department authorities yesterday. Dr. H. J. Webber certified that baby George arrived on this planet at 12:01 a. m. Jan. 1, thereby naming out the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Booth, 1941 South St. Louis avenue, for the honor of being Chicago's first 1922 baby. Baby Booth arrived at 12:40 a. m. of the same day. There were seventy-seven deaths and 264 births reported to Dr. M. O. Heckard, health department statistician, on Jan. 1.

PROBE RELEASE OF SLAYERS OF MRS. KAUFMAN

An investigation was started yesterday into the report that two of the slayers of Mrs. Edmund Kaufman in 1911 had been paroled from Joliet.

According to information circulated in Chicago, Edward Boneham and John Stacey were paroled last April. William R. Channell, also convicted, is still in Joliet, but has been pardoned and is awaiting release papers from Springfield. Each of these men were under sentences of twenty-five years in prison.

George Rabeneau, who was sentenced for life in the same case and who was declared by the other three to have been the man who fired the shot that killed Mrs. Kaufman, is still in Joliet. It is said, however, that his parole is being considered favorably.

Mrs. Kaufman, wife of Edmund Kaufman, a commission merchant at 135 South Water street, was killed Dec. 2, 1911, in Roscoe street, just west of Broadway, at 11:30 o'clock at night. She and her husband had just returned from the theater. They left a Broadway car at Roscoe street and started for their home at 665 Roscoe. Three men in a taxicab accosted them in front of 647 and demanded their money. Mrs. Kaufman screamed. Then, according to Mr. Kaufman, one of the robbers put a gun to his wife's head and fired.

UTILITY BOARD HINTS DOLLAR AS NEW RATE

Decision Expected to Save Millions.

BY OSCAR HEWITT. Dollar gas for Chicago in the very near future was forecast in the intimations of Frank Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, yesterday. The order may come within a few days.

Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the city, pleaded for a gas rate of "not more than 95 cents per 1,000 cubic feet."

George A. Cooke, attorney for the gas company, argued that it remain at $1.15, as at present.

Chairman Smith intimated by his questions that the commission is seriously considering a rate of $1.

Both city and company filed written briefs and will begin oral argument this morning and a decision is expected within a week or ten days.

All Evidence Presented. The presentation of the evidence was completed yesterday and there is nothing in it to indicate any intention whatever on the part of the commission of attempting to order the pre-war gas rate of 70 cents reestablished, although the commission has ordered the pre-war car fare of 5 cents on the surface lines resumed. That car fare order to date has saved no car rider a cent, because the federal court was prevailed upon to intervene and stop a fare reduction—at least temporarily.

The dollar rate, if it is ordered, will mean an annual saving to the average consumer of $5.78, or a total for the city of $4,650,000. That is the equivalent of 15 per cent on the present gas consumption of the municipality.

63 Per Cent on Stock. For the stockholders, who will get their first dividend next week in the last four years, the $1 rate will give a return of about 63 per cent, in the opinion of Chairman Smith as intimated in his questions.

W. M. Hammond, chief accountant of the commission, was the principal witness. His elaborate exhibit of a volume of figures was largely a picture of the company's books of account. He said, in answer to the chairman's questions that in November the company was earning on this basis: Payment of all interest obligations and about 16 per cent of the capital stock, and in September about 11 per cent.

Urges Year's Earnings as Basis. Attorney Cooke objected to the commission considering revenue from three subsidiaries and also to November, which was a typical month. William E. Sauer, controller of the company, testified that November was much above normal. Cooke pleaded that the commission take a year for a basis of calculation.

He also insisted that the company is entitled to a fair return upon the valuation of its property, regardless of the stocks, bonds, and notes outstanding. On that basis Hammond claimed that the company earned at the rate of 8.11 per cent in September, 9.15 per cent in October, 10.28 per cent in November, 9.18 per cent in the three months, and 9.71 per cent in the two months of October and November.

Thieves Make Way with Liquors of Elihu Root. Utica, N. Y., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—When thieves broke into the home of Elihu Root on College hill, Clinton, recently they obtained loot which included the contents of the cellar, said to comprise a choice stock of wines and liquors. This was revealed here today by advertisements in local papers offering $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the depredators of the diplomat's private stock.

"I can't recall any valuable supply," he said. "To the best of my memory, there were only two or three bottles of Scotch up there and a keg of cider. By this time the cider ought to be pretty hard, I suppose."

FRANCE, JAPAN, AND ITALY HOLD UP ARMS MEET

Unprepared for Decision on Root Resolutions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The machinery of the conference on the limitation of armaments remained completely stalled today as a result of the unpreparedness of the French, Japanese, and Italian delegations to proceed with the consideration of the Root resolutions limiting the employment of submarines.

The only one of the Root resolutions adopted so far is the first one which reaffirms international law requiring visit and search of a merchant ship by any vessel of war, and declaring submarines amenable to this rule.

Await Word From Home. The second resolution proposing the amendment of international law to prohibit the employment of submarines against commerce under any circumstances, and binding the five powers to observe this rule forthwith among themselves, and the third resolution declaring that violations of this rule should be punished as piracy have been accepted by the United States and Great Britain. Delay in further consideration of the resolutions was asked by the French, Italian, and Japanese delegates until instructions should be received from the governments.

Reluctance to agree to the second and third resolutions unless the term merchantman is satisfactorily defined, and the arming of merchantmen prohibited is evinced by members of the French delegation. The Italian delegation received instructions to declare the second resolution unacceptable in view of the adoption of the first one.

France Refuses Consent.

Another proposal to which the French have not given their consent is that warships, other than capital ships, shall be limited to 10,000 tons and shall carry no guns in excess of eight inch caliber. This rule was proposed to prevent the building of capital ships under the guise of cruisers. The attention of the delegates is now concentrated on the meeting between Lloyd George and Briand at Cannes because of the possibility that any new understanding which may be reached between the British and French governments would cause the French to abandon the submarine building program and agree to a limitation of all naval armament.

Britain to Arm Merchantmen.

British delegates said they would not agree to the prohibition of the arming of merchantmen unless submarines are completely abolished. After the experience of the late war, they said, Great Britain would not forego the right to arm merchantmen even if the use of submarines against commerce were prohibited.

The attitude of France caused Representative Reavis of Nebraska to propose in the house a legislative move. He offered a resolution providing that whereas there appears "a determination on the part of certain debtor nations of the United States to expend large sums of money on increased naval armament," which nations shall be advised that "the payment of obligations now due the United States will be acceptable."

Reavis Scores France.

"The United States," said Representative Reavis, "feels very great sympathy for the distress of Europe aside from any selfish interest we may have in the matter. I do not doubt that congress will be willing to fund the European debt as suggested by the administration, if the necessity for it is apparent. But with Europe standing unmoved before the prayers and pleading of mankind for a tranquil world, and asserting the intention of vastly increasing the most barbarous and inhuman implement of war—namely the submarine—I think it is time to wipe the tears of sympathy from our eyes and try to see with clearer vision what the present situation portends."

WICKED HEELS

Literally walking on diamonds was the smuggler who wore these specially made shoes with heels hollowed out to admit of carrying through the customs office thousands of dollars in diamonds. They were confiscated by Chicago federal officials who captured the smuggler suspect.

JEWELS STOLEN IN RUSS REVOLT ARE FOUND HERE

Four large diamonds stolen from a wealthy Russian family shortly after the fall of the Russian empire, have been recovered in Chicago by federal customs officers, according to William W. Williams, special treasury agent. The jewels, which once adorned the diadem of a Russian noblewoman, were smuggled into America in the heels of an old pair of shoes, he said.

Mr. Williams found the gems in the home of Benjamin Brenner at 1219 South Throop street.

At the same time he discovered the shoes, the heels of which had been carved out and a layer of leather tacked over, forming a receptacle for the gems.

According to Mr. Williams, the jewels were stolen by one of the roaming bands of thieves that infested Russia during the bolshevik uprising. Later they were sold in Germany and while in Hamburg, Brenner bought them for a small sum in a pawnshop.

Brenner learned later the jewels had been stolen and that he was in danger of losing them, so he put them in the heels of the shoes and came to America, but failed to pay duty on them, it is said.

Inasmuch as Brenner turned the diamonds over to the government, it is probable no action will be taken against him, Mr. Williams said.

METHODISTS FIND 85% DECREASE IN LIQUOR DRINKING

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

"The consumption of liquor has decreased not less than 85 per cent, and possibly more than 90 per cent."

"There is a marked decrease in poverty and financial distress. Private distillation and brewing are insignificant factors."

These are some of the high spots in a report of the Methodist Episcopal church, issued yesterday.

"These conclusions," reads the report, "are the result of an investigation covering several months in which 20,000 pastors and many lay leaders of the church have been consulted. The official figures on crime and increase in financial ability have been obtained from state, city, and rural officials, chiefs of police departments, and from secretaries of chambers of commerce, real estate dealers, and merchants."

Hughes Answers Denial of French Delegation.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The "Chita documents" still occupied the center of the conference stage today. Baron Kato this evening declared the alleged secret treaties between Japan and France over their joint interests in Russia were "absolutely false."

Secretary Hughes issued a reply to the denial of the French delegation, in which he said he was "gratified to learn that the French government formally denies that it has come to any agreement or carried on any negotiations concerning the status of Siberia and am glad to accept your statement that the documents in question are not authentic."

It was also stated that the United States government has no "official" information concerning any such agreement, as is charged by agents of the Far Eastern republic.

Investigation May Follow.

This, however, does not end the matter, for there is a strong likelihood of a senatorial investigation into the Siberian situation. There are reports in the files of the state department, made by American observers in the far east, which bear a general resemblance to the documents made public here. These were under a former administration and may never have reached the department heads.

A new document was presented to the press today by the Chita delegation. It is dated June 8, 1921, at Vladivostok, and purports to be an agreement between the chief of the Japanese forces in Siberia and the generals commanding various anti-bolshevik groups in Siberia. This outlines a campaign against the people's revolutionary army of the far eastern republic, setting the offensive at July 1. It was directed against Khabarovsk, which fell a few days ago. The Japanese agree to give 500,000 yen, rifles, ammunition, etc.

Japanese to Obtain Rights. The Japanese are to supply the Russians with food and fodder and to transport them. When the far eastern republic is overthrown the Japanese are to receive preferential rights for obtaining hunting, fishing, and forestry concessions in the maritime, Saghalien, and Kamchatka provinces.

Baron Kato pronounced this also a forgery.

"I have been in the cabinet seven years," he said, "and would know of these things. I take the ground of positive denial. We have never financed any Russian groups."

Hughes and See Discuss Shantung.

Reports were current today that in order to avoid having the conference take up the Shantung question for settlement the Japanese government was bringing pressure on the new Peking government for direct negotiations. This was denied by Baron Kato. Min-

REPORT ON CONDITION OF E. W. WAGNER & CO. IS EXPECTED TODAY

Audit of the books of E. W. Wagner & Co., bankrupt brokerage firm, at least so far as the Chicago house is concerned, is expected to have progressed sufficiently far today for an announcement as to the approximate assets and liabilities.

Bankruptcy proceedings also have been started in Detroit, so the books of the branch house there will not be turned over to the Chicago receiver, the Central Trust company.

The books of the Cleveland and Fort Dodge, Ia., branches have been turned over to F. E. Hummel and he has asked for the books of all the other mid-western and western branches. The books of the branch houses in the east probably will be audited by the New York receiver.

Petitions for the return of approximately $250,000 in stocks and bonds seized among the assets were filed yesterday before Judge Landis by two former clients of the brokerage firm, Thomas A. Burt and Charles G. Rhodes. The Central Trust company was ordered by the court to answer the petitions within ten days.

Burt sets forth that the Wagner concern held $140,000 worth of stocks belonging to him as collateral for a loan of $38,000. Rhodes claims to have given the firm $120,000 in stock and bonds as collateral for an indebtedness of $85,400.

later See for China, said he could not affirm or deny. Mr. See called on Secretary Hughes today and discussed Shantung.

"FREE THE FILIPINOS"

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The question of Philippine independence will receive considerable attention from the senate when the four power pact comes up for ratification. Efforts will be made to write into the treaty a promise on the part of the United States to free the islands and at the same time extract a guarantee from the other powers to respect their territorial integrity.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican, has drafted a reservation to bring the Philippine question before the senate. His reservation provides: "The United States agrees within two years to grant complete independence to the people of the Philippine islands, provided the high contracting parties will obligate themselves to respect the political independence and territorial integrity of the Philippine nation."

Senator McNary considers that no more opportune time could be found for setting the Philippine problem. If the United States could obtain a pledge from Japan to respect the independence and integrity of the Philippines, one of the chief obstacles to freeing them would be removed, he contends. Practically all the Democrats, who have long favored Philippine independence, are expected to support the McNary reservation.

ARREST THEATER MAN; DOUBT TALE OF $2,000 THEFT

C. L. Boyd, treasurer of the Columbia theater, 11 North Clark street, who told the police yesterday morning that two burglars held him up and escaped with $2,000 from the theater safe, is under arrest at the detective bureau.

Police, after questioning Boyd, Benjamin Pate, ticket agent, and G. D. Hartwell, 3019 Vernon avenue, colored porter, assert that the robbery "looks like a frameup"—quoting Chief of Detectives Hughes. Pate and Hartwell were not held.

Lost $1,900 Last Spring. Last April Boyd befriended two strangers and all three men slept in the office. The next morning the men and $1,900 was gone. The money was later recovered.

Boyd is to be questioned again today. Bandits whose paraphernalia includes a motor truck visited the Parkway theater, 1194 South Michigan avenue, yesterday morning. They took the safe, containing $2,000, away in the truck. It hasn't been recovered.

Four thieves in an automobile picked up Sidney Beck, 4743 Forrestville avenue, at 75th street and Exchange avenue last night and let him out at 77th and Yates avenues. They charged $12 for the ride. John Mahoney, 7435 Kenwood avenue, was their next passenger, $50. Louis and Leo Hertz, brothers, and Max and Sam Passer, brothers, all of whom live at 210 East 32d street, lost $240 to the same quartet.

Gun Battle Futile.

Philip Garrin, grocer, 3137 Cottage Grove avenue, was visited by three armed colored men. They got $100. As they were leaving Detective Sergeant Andrew Lavin arrived. There was a gun battle. Garrin fled, 3135 Cottage Grove avenue, a bystander, was shot in a foot. Both the bandits and the sergeant escaped injury.

William West, 535 East 67th street, is mourning $100 donated to a lone bandit at 5241 South Wells street. Edward Sylvester, 2553 Florence avenue, gave up $25 and a watch; C. W. Johnson, 1827 North Albany avenue, yielded $35 and a watch.

RENEW BITTER DEBATE IN DAIL; TREATY GAINS

Ratification Expected by End of Week.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—When the Dail Eireann resumed its debate on the Anglo-Irish treaty this morning after the ten days' adjournment, there was no indication that the "die hard" republicans had modified their opposition to the treaty in favor of ratification at the demand of their constituents. As a matter of fact the PEACE BRASLEY, foe of the treaty who spoke declared they did not care what their constituents said or wanted, they would vote as they saw fit.

Art O'Connor of Kildare, the first speaker, took this attitude. So did Countess Markiewicz, who spent an hour telling the Dail that she was an unrepentant believer in the workers for the republic, and that she would remain a rebel to the Irish Free State as she was to the British government. In the lobbies, however, it was soon evident that some of the quiet men, who previously had not declared themselves, had made up their minds to vote for the treaty. They were likely that ratification will take place about the end of the week.

Fighting Man for Treaty.

One of the finest speeches of the session was made in favor of ratification by Pearce Beasley, a famous fighting man and the commandant of the Irish republican army in Kerry, who declared the opponents of the treaty talked about being animated by principles when in reality they were merely slaves of a little formula for which they were gambling with the lives and fortunes of the Irish people.

"Ireland to me is not a formula, but a fact," he said. "When I say that I love Ireland I mean that I love the Irish people and not some vague abstraction. The formulaists of the Dail Eireann never think of the people, but of some vague idea which has no existence. For God's sake think of the Irish nation which is trying to be born and give it a chance."

"When the British troops and British influence leave Ireland, then we will have a chance to make our nation what we will. If it is not freedom that we attain it is our own fault. Historically, we republicans have not a leg to stand on. It was not for a republic that our fathers and comrades fought. It was for a free Ireland."

"55 Per Cent of People for Treaty."

J. J. Walsh of Cork city, speaking for the treaty, scored the "undecided" republicans who refused to carry out the expressed wish of the people. He declared he had spent his holiday in Cork and could affirm that nine-tenths of the people demanded ratification and that 55 per cent of the people of Ireland favored the treaty regardless of the fetish of the unity of their leaders. He scored the politicians who sneered at the county councils, boards of guardians, and town councils.

A dramatic feature of the afternoon session was an attempt by Mr. Collins to secure unity in supporting the treaty or at least its passage without further interruption. Donald O'Callaghan, the lord mayor of Cork, had just finished a speech, which seemed in every respect an argument for the treaty with the declaration that although his constituents were almost unanimously in favor of the treaty he could not vote for it because he was a republican, when Mr. Collins arose, evidently laboring under great excitement, and shaking his head like a bull charging. Ignoring the chairman, he said:

"I wish to propose a plan to avoid a division of the Dail and to enable acceptance of this treaty, which has already been ratified by the whole Irish people."

Heads for Chance for Ireland.
He was interrupted by Countess Mar-

KEWICZ, who asked if he was in order, and she persisted in spite of the evident desire of the house to hear Mr. Collins. The speaker ruled Mr. Collins out of order, but the house called for him, and finally Mr. de Valera said that he had no objection to hearing Mr. Collins and the women withdrew their opposition.

"My suggestion," said Mr. Collins, "is for the men and women of the Dail who are against the treaty to continue to be against it, but to abstain from voting. Let it go through, let the provisional government be set up, and then fight the provisional government for a republic if you like. If the treaty is rejected what happens? England is absolved from her bargain and there is chaos."

"I say that if the opposition members can redeem the country we are willing to let them have all the glory and we will take all the shame and disgrace."

De Valera for Straight Vote.
Mr. de Valera was on his feet in a moment, but in the excitement he was inaudible. It was understood that he insisted upon a straight vote on the treaty and the matter was dropped.

Fourteen members spoke, seven for and seven against the treaty, and it is said that there are still fifty on the speaker's list. The speeches are becoming shorter, however, and it is hoped that a vote may be reached Thursday or Friday.

Use Machine Guns on Snipers.
BELFAST, Jan. 3.—Snipers in the Cork street area late this evening fired about 150 shots to which the soldiers replied with machine guns. The casualties reported in these exchanges were a man killed and a woman wounded. A bomb was thrown at a tramcar in the Newtownards road, but exploded in the street. A guard of soldiers who saw men running away fired, wounding five of them.

I hear in the lobbies that the negotiations with Ulster are in a hopeful stage, but they of course are altogether conditional on the ratification being able to set up a strong all-Ireland government in which Ulster would be adequately represented.

pearing in Chicago as Florence Walton's dancing partner. McCormick adjusted the music records for the dances.

Miss Baker was literary. Last year she published privately a slender platinum gray volume entitled "Verbum Sapienti."

A copy of this "word to the wise" was given each of her friends, including her fiancé.

Something different, she had written. "Spiritual attainments are the oases in the desert of life—material joys are the mirages," penned the girl whose wedding presents fill a room, whose white velvet wedding gown is a triumph of the Italian renaissance period, whose "material joys" are the envy of many Chicago girls.

Her Definition of Love.
On page 4 is this: "Time and space are material hallucinations"; on a few pages and the girl to whom love gave a nervous breakdown writes: "Truth and beauty are one; together they are love."

"One of the greatest experiences of earthly life is the ability to travel around the world inside the four walls of home." The author of this sentiment spent yesterday within the four walls of her father's apartment when she might have been on her way to a honeymoon in England.

It was reported yesterday that Henry Channon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Channon, 1434 Astor street, who has been seen much with the couple since his return from England, was to have accompanied them to England on their honeymoon.

The girl's love of freedom may be found in the following excerpts from her book:

"We are never truly of the earth. The Spirit knows perfect freedom—its liberty is God's great gift to us."

"Each ego represents the Universe. The powers of the soul are deeper than the solemn hand of fate."

If Miss Baker wishes merely to be a friend to her fiancé, she may recall the lines she wrote on page 36 of the little gray book:

"It is more important for a true friend to be in sympathy with one's joys than with one's sorrows."

Or if, as both families insist, they are going to live happy ever after, the couple have the following passages for reference:

"Forgiveness is enlightenment."

"After a storm comes the rainbow; after soul-torment comes peace."

What the Future?
These three lines, all alone on page 38, may be prophetic:

"The most torrid wrath is cooled by time—moss as soft as velvet will grow on the hardest stone."

Who knows? Society says it doesn't. And in the meantime the wedding gifts are in statu quo. If there is a postponed wedding they will be kept, if not they most probably, according to a social arbiter, will be returned.

BEAUVAIS WIRES "FIFI" HE'LL GIVE LIFE TO AID HER

Bud Stillman Turns Dad's
Check Over to Mother.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Montreal, Que., Jan. 3.—(Special.)—

Dissension and discouragement in the party surrounding Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman in Canada to assemble witnesses for the final hearing in her husband's divorce case melted away today before the renewed loyalty of Fred K. Beauvais, the former Indian guide named as co-respondent in the case.

"I will give my life's blood to help you. I will arrive on the first train," Beauvais wired to Mrs. Stillman at Grandes Piles, where she was staying for the night in the house of the mayor of the town, Jean Crete.

Gives $1,000 Check to Mother.
As if this were not enough striking evidence of devotion for one day, Bud Stillman, just before his mother's departure for Montreal this morning, signed over to her the $1,000 Christmas check sent him by his father. His only condition was that she use it in defense against Mr. Stillman's charges. It will be a retainer fee for the Canadian lawyers she came to Montreal to hire.

Two sentences like the ones from Beauvais, according to the French Canadian associated in the investigation, mean volumes to the difficult future of the suit. Beauvais had expressed himself as dissatisfied, tired of the whole affair; in Quebec on Friday night last he had created a small storm in the Chateau Frontenac when Mrs. Stillman refused to see him; he had left in a huff and his dismissal from the service of the investigators was considered certain.

Beauvais' Help Valuable.
Yet Jean Crete, the mainstay of Mrs. Stillman's adventurous activities in Canada, declared the whole case would collapse without the invaluable aid of Beauvais in collecting the witnesses from the north valley.

Mrs. Stillman never seemed to lose confidence, and so far every obstacle has melted. Beauvais returns in full force to the investigation today, speeding up to Grandes Piles, to go out on the river trip northward.

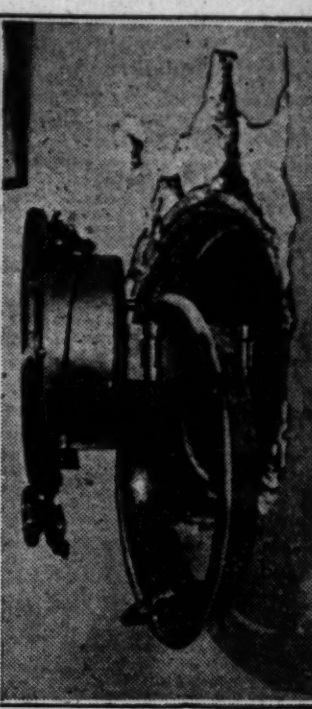

This morning at daybreak "Bud" Stillman, eldest son of Mrs. Stillman, started out with couriers in a sleigh to Grand Anse, the Stillman camp on the St. Maurice river. There he will do his share of the work by seeing important witnesses of the neighborhood, bringing them in line for the hearings on Jan. 11.

Dines at Jean Crete's House.
When, after dark last night, Mrs. Stillman made her first entry for four years into the valley she once dominated, Bud was with her. They went to Jean Crete's house, with its roof half burned off by yesterday's fire. After their dinner—a French-Canadian dinner, omitting only the wine, they discussed the next day's plans.

Mrs. Stillman made up her mind to go to Montreal to engage a new lawyer. She denied she was dissatisfied with Goulet Bedesunier, the Canadian attorney engaged for her by Fred Beauvais. But another lawyer, preferably one who carries a great name with the French Canadians, is needed for the Montreal hearings, she believes.

Then Mrs. Stillman took the early train for Montreal. Accompanied by Philip J. O'Brien of New York, counsel, she reached here this afternoon and drove to the Hotel Ritz. There she spent the remainder of the day in an effort to obtain the best possible French Canadian counsel.

ENGRAVERS ON STRIKE; WAGES, HOURS, ISSUES

A wage dispute prevailing in thirty cities closed twenty-nine commercial engraving shops in Chicago yesterday. About 750 men are affected here.

Louis Flader, commissioner of the American Photo Engravers' association, said the workers struck in protest to a proposal to lengthen the workday or reduce wages. Rudolph Clemens, secretary of the Chicago Photo Engravers' union, local No. 2, said employers declared a lockout.

"The employers want to reinstate the forty-eight hour week or cut wages 5%," said Mr. Clemens. "We voted to accept no change in conditions as they prevailed last year. But we have not struck. Our men were 'locked out.'"

Engravers average about $55 a week, Clemens said. They have been working forty-four hours a week.

BANDITS TORTURE FAMILY 3 HOURS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—(United Press.)—Three masked men entered the home of C. F. Churchill on North Bunker Hill avenue today and tortured members of the family for three hours, finally leaving when Mrs. Churchill revealed the hiding place of $400 beneath a carpet.

The bandits used their fists and clubs on Churchill and seized the chests and arms of Mrs. Churchill and her two daughters, Mildred, 15, and Florence, with heated pokers.

MISS PICKFORD'S DIVORCE CALLED 'AKIN TO ANARCHY'

Supplemental Attack on Decree in Nevada.

Carson City, Nev., Jan. 3.—Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore was "the worst of its kind and should be the last of its kind," Attorney General L. B. Fowler declared in a closing brief filed in the Supreme court here today in his action to have the decree set aside.

Miss Pickford was granted her decree at Minden, Nev., March 20, 1920, and in a short time married Douglas Fairbanks in Los Angeles. When Fowler attacked the divorce, Attorney Gayvin McNab of San Francisco asserted for the defense that the attorney general's move "violated every principle of institutional government" and was "the first of its kind and should be the last of its kind."

Alleges Untruthful Testimony.
"No language can be found in any law that can be tortured into giving an excuse for the untruthful testimony of respondent and the fraudulent decree awarded her by reason of such untruthful testimony," Fowler declared in today's brief. "To allow deceit and trickery to overthrow law would be akin to anarchy."

Miss Pickford swore that she was a resident of Nevada and that she had no other home, the attorney general's brief said.

Individual Above Law.
"If married parties may, by false testimony, collusion, or fraud, obtain a divorce by the methods pursued in this case, there can be no value connected with the long established principle that marriage and divorce are controlled by law."

Argument in the Pickford case was set for Jan. 30 by the Supreme court.

COUNTY TO SEEK REVENUES FROM 'LOST AND FOUND'

Lost and found departments of street car companies, railroads, taxicab companies, department stores, restaurants, and similar institutions may be abolished and their functions taken over by Cook county as a result of action yesterday by the county board, which may also take from Chicago several hundred thousands of dollars and many jobs from the Lundin-Thompson patronage pool.

A resolution offered by Commissioner Emmett Wheelan, chairman of the finance committee, and unanimously adopted, called attention to the "Lost and Found" law which directs that such goods and articles as are found be turned into the county, and, being unclaimed, become the property of the county.

The state's attorney is directed to proceed under this law to recover for the county such money as should have been rightfully paid to it under the law.

Sought More Revenue.

In preparing the budget for the ensuing year, it became the duty of Commissioner Wheelan to inquire into all possible sources of revenue. He came across the "Astray Book" in the county clerk's office.

The last entry in it, he found, was made in 1907, at which time $75 found in a railroad office, was turned into the county treasury and remained unclaimed. He wondered why there had been nothing since.

Several lawyers informed him the law was still in effect.

He dug up records and discovered the city was obtaining large revenues

RUSSIA ATTACKS FINLAND

Fighting is reported between Bolsheviks and Finns over the Karelian question. The Russians charge the Finns with aiding the Karelians in their revolt against Russia. Recent reports said Finland, in response to Russia's ultimatum, had expelled members of the Karelian rebel government.

from this source, principally through the police department.

Revenue being what he was seeking for the county, he inquired by what right the city was withholding these funds. He found no good reason, he avers, except possibly a city ordinance which in no way nullifies the state law.

May Start Action Soon.

He explained his find to the commissioners and obtained their approval. The first step taken may be an onslaught upon the office of city custodian.

"I believe this law still applies, though unenforced for fifteen years," he said. "If so, it is our duty to have the only 'lost and found' department in the county building and to have the county as the only beneficiary of unclaimed property."

STATE BELIEVES JURY WILL FIND BURCH GUILTY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The prosecution believes its fight to convict Arthur Burch of the murder of J. Belton Kennedy virtually is won, it was learned today.

As the state's attorneys now view the attitude of the jurors, there is only one who does not stand for conviction and this one, the prosecutors think, merely is in the doubtful column.

Opposed to this is the view of the defense counsel that the majority of the jury is for acquittal and the defendant believes all the jurors favor a verdict exonerating him.

Note from Madelyn Read.

A note written by Madelyn Obenchain to her co-defendant, Burch, was read to the jury today when Dr. Ross Moore, an alienist, was recalled for further cross examination. Dr. Moore declared the note had been written after he failed in an attempt to have Burch discuss the case. The message was as follows:

"Dear Arthur: Much benefit can be derived from your continuing freely and completely to Dr. Moore your actions from Aug. 8 noon until midnight. Also explain fully our friendship."

"MADELYN."

When this note was presented to Burch he told Dr. Moore he had changed his mind and would not discuss the case, the witness said.

Reporter Gives Testimony.

Rhys Thackwell, Chicago newspaper reporter, got into the "diary" class during his examination today. He was the third Evanston figure in the trial to keep a diary, the Rev. William A. Burch, father of the defendant, and Madelyn Obenchain, being the other two.

The burden of his testimony was that Dr. and Mrs. Burch told him their son was a brilliant thinker, had never caused them any trouble, and was a good, bright boy.

This testimony was adduced by the prosecution in an effort to discredit the sworn statement of the parents that their son had deteriorated morally during the last three years.

Boston Banker Is Made Sole Trustee for Scientists

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—Judge Crosby of the Supreme court announced today that he would formally appoint Fred M. Lamson, vice president of the Old Colony Trust company, of this city, and a Christian Scientist, as temporary trustee to take charge of the affairs of the Christian Science Publishing society, as soon as certain details as to his duties has been defined. The trustees of the publishing society and the directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, had informed the court that they had agreed upon Mr. Lamson.

EUROPEAN NEWS PRODUCT OF WAR, McCORMICK SAYS

Co-Editor of Tribune Tells of "1914 Discovery."

The year 1914 should rank with 1492 as a date of discovery—because, not only did the world war broke did America really discover Europe—Col. E. McCormick, co-editor of The Tribune, told members and guests of the Rotary club following a luncheon at the Sherman hotel yesterday.

"And the discovery of Europe by the United States was just as sensational as the explorations of Columbus," Col. McCormick said. "For twenty years prior to the war our interest in foreign affairs seems to have been well confined to international domestic relations—to the doings of the old aristocrat who was to marry an American heiress, and matters of like importance."

"But the great conflict of old world powers brought an intense desire for information concerning Europe. This developed a 'news riot.' Now it requires a small army of trained observers to supply the demand for foreign news. You want it now, and you are getting it."

Newspermen Present.

About fifty active and former newspapermen were the guests of the Rotary club at the luncheon. Victor Lawson, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Col. McCormick were the guests of honor. Harry Barrett, Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, referred to Mr. Lawson as a "demon of American journalism."

Mr. Lawson did not speak. Col. Chamberlain introduced Col. McCormick as a man who rides well, shoots straight, and carries a punch in either hand.

The speakers included Mack H. Owen, Chesley R. Perry, and O. A. Wright.

Pre-War Stories "Aristocratic."
The Newspaper's Part in International Affairs, was Col. McCormick's subject. He said his conclusions as to America's lack of interest in foreign affairs was based on a study of newspaper front pages for years back.

"I found," he said, "most stories had to do with international marriages. The literature making the widest appeal was represented by such books as 'The Prisoner of Zenda' and 'Graft,' dealing with the romance of monarchy and aristocracy. And such days as 'The Merry Widow' catered to this demand."

"Excepting the invasion of Belgium, which was remarkably well covered, first stages of the war were not reliably reported. But since early in 1915 we have been getting the truth about Europe."

"And I may say that, if the general state of the English and French press had been as well informed on the Belgian invasion as newspaper correspondents, the disasters of Mons and Charleroi might have been avoided."

Col. McCormick told of the circumstances under which the peace treaty was made public through The Tribune.

"When one of our correspondents, Fraser Hunt, brought it into my office, we did not know what to do with it. We sent it to Washington, and they didn't know what to do with it. They didn't know how it had been obtained. But I can tell you now it was not stolen; it was not bought. A member of the home delegation in Europe saw to it that the people were informed."

SPONSOR CONCERT FOR $10,000

Miss Muriel McCormick (left), Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr. (chairman), and Mrs. John Borden are the committee sponsoring a concert at the Auditorium Sunday evening, Jan. 15, at which they hope to wipe out the $10,000 deficit resulting from the 1921 activities of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society. Opera stars and others will contribute their services to the concert. Mrs. Crane entertained at tea for the committee yesterday afternoon at her home, 1550 Lake Shore drive. Those present included Mrs. E. A. Leight, Mrs. Doris L. Chapman, Mrs. E. L. Fifield, Miss Helen Gilbert, Mrs. R. R. McCormick, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Miss Olga Menn, Mrs. Charles Peterson, and Chauncey McCormick.

MAYOR RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF PIER PAGEANT

Action Forced by Ruling of Judge Rush.

Mayor Thompson informed the city council yesterday that he has resigned as president of the Pageant of Progress exposition, but announced he will urge a state law to permit its continuance under municipal auspices.

The mayor resigned because of Judge Rush's decision that city officials may not conduct an exposition in the name of the city, using city property and turning the profits of the exhibition over to semi-public corporations.

$300,000 Net Profits.
Last year's pageant made net profits of $300,000, of which $75,000 thus far has been turned over to the Chicago Training School for Home and Public Health Nurses and $75,000 to the Chicago Boosters' Publicity club, the mayor reported.

"The enthusiastic manner in which the pageant was supported by the business men who exhibited and the people who attended, has convinced me that the people of Chicago would like to see this exposition continued as an annual affair," the mayor's letter to the aldermen said.

Will Ask State Law.
"I have therefore decided to urge the general assembly to enact a law which would empower the city of Chicago to operate the pageant as an annual exposition just as the law permits the state to operate the state fair."

On motion of Ald. Coughlin the council requested the legislature to remove the referendum string from its action in authorizing the issuance of bonds for a state bonus for ex-soldiers.

The proposed repeal of the ordinance creating the department of public welfare, of which Mrs. Louise Osborne Rowe is commissioner, was made a special order of business for the next council session, Jan. 11.

RESCUE MOTHER AND SON.
Mrs. Bertha Apple and her son, Kenneth, 5 years old, 6135 Cottage Grove avenue, were rescued from their burning apartment yesterday by Battalion Chief John Monahan and Fireman Fred Schille of engine company 51. The mother and son were both unconscious from smoke. They were on the street and taken to the Washington Park hospital. Their condition is not serious.

SECRETS OF TAX LAWS EXPLAINED TO CLUB WOMEN

Two principles of taxation not to be found in textbooks were propounded to delegates to the legal forum of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs in the Gold room of the Congress hotel yesterday by Congressman Ira C. Copley of Aurora, member of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives. They were, that any tax is just, if it falls on somebody else; and, that an unjust tax becomes just if its burden can be shifted to somebody else. Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court, spoke on the need for more Supreme court judges.

His Excess Profits Tax.
"Our country had little experience in taxation before the war," said Congressman Copley. "Before that time receipts and revenues almost balanced. With our entry into the war,

JUDGE HARRY OLSON.

every means in sight was seized to produce revenue."

The excess profits tax on business earnings, and the income tax were the result, he declared. The first of these, he said, was the chief cause for the high cost of living, destroying initiative of young men, riveting monopoly on business, and causing large numbers of chain stores to spring up. It caused an epidemic of extravagance, he asserted.

"There is not a man or woman, save in the poorhouse or the insane asylum, who is not paying taxes," he concluded.

Chicago, who has almost one-half of the state's population, and does two-thirds of the business in the Illinois Supreme court, has but one judge on the bench, instead of the four it should have, said Judge Olson, the next speaker.

"Machine Politics."
Not all the bad things done in the state legislature have been done by Chicago representatives, Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCullough said. Machine politics, dominated by Mayor Thompson, are not necessarily worse than those dominated by Gov. Small, she maintained. "The state doesn't know what domination by Chicago is," Mrs. McCullough stated. "But the city does know downstate domination."

Former Judge Charles S. Cutting, Prof. William E. Dodd, E. J. Davis, and A. M. Sheldon were among the other speakers. Miss Grace Dixon presided. The forum closed with a dinner last night at the Drake given by the state board for the board of the General Federation, which was attended by the fifty delegates and almost as many hostesses.

DROPS DEAD AT WORK.
Michael Pecht, 59 years old, 1715 Hudson avenue, a carpenter, dropped dead while at work yesterday.

SPROUL REFUSES TO RESIGN AND HURRY TO SENATE

Gov. W. C. SPROUL.
[Copyright: Moffett.]

is in a hospital at Pittsburgh," said the governor.

"My plan is to see some friends in Philadelphia tomorrow, and possibly to go toward the end of the week to Pittsburgh. I have no announcement to make."

The governor declined to comment on the statement of Senator James H. Watson at Washington.

During the day many friends and officials called him on the telephone regarding the senatorship. Some urged him to remain as governor, but the majority advised him to resign and be appointed senator. He said frankly he had been impressed by the number.

Watson Urges Resignation Now.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Prediction that Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania would within forty-eight hours announce his intention of resigning to accept appointment as United States senator to succeed the late Boies Penrose was made today by Senator Watson of Indiana, one of the Republican leaders of the senate, after a call at the White House.

Gov. Sproul would succeed to the seat of Senator Penrose by resigning as governor and taking an appointment to the senate at the hands of the present lieutenant governor, who would succeed to the governorship, according to this plan.

The particular reason impelling the senate Republican organization to urge speed in filling the vacancy left by Senator Penrose's death is understood to be the approaching vote in the Ford-Newberry election contest.

BEECHNUT CO.'S TRADE METHODS HELD "UNFAIR"

Supreme Court Up- holds Federal Body.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Lawful trade methods were further defined today by the Supreme court in a decision holding the policies of the Beech Nut Packing company in obtaining the cooperation of its distributors and customers to be "unfair methods of competition" within the meaning of the federal trade commission act.

In upholding the right of the federal trade commission to order discontinuance of such methods the jurists divided, five and four. Justice Day delivered the opinion of the majority, and Justices Holmes, McKenna, McReynolds, and Brandeis dissented. The decision reverses the lower courts.

"If the Beech Nut system of merchandising is against public policy because of its dangerous tendency to hinder competition or to create monopoly," the court maintained, "it was within the power of the commission to make an order forbidding its continuance."

The court suggested a form of order which the federal trade commission should have used in forbidding the continuance by the company of its practices.

Three trade method cases previously decided by the Supreme court, which had been brought under the Sherman anti-trust law, and not under the federal trade commission act, as was the Beech Nut, had settled the court stated today, "that in prosecutions under the Sherman act a trader is not guilty of violating its terms who simply refuses to sell to others, and he may withhold his goods from those who will not sell them at the prices which he fixes for their resale."

"He may not," go beyond the exercise of this right," it added, "and by contract or combination, express or implied, unduly hinder or obstruct the free and natural flow of commerce in the channels of interstate trade."

In the Beech Nut case, the court stated, "the facts show that the Beech Nut system goes beyond the simple refusal to sell goods to persons who will not sell at stated prices, which in the Colgate case was held to be within the legal right of the producer."

The Sherman act was not involved except as "a declaration of public policy to be considered in determining what are unfair methods of competition, which the federal trade commission is empowered to condemn and suppress."

You Need a Hot Spark In Cold Weather

Most engine trouble comes from worn-out or incorrectly designed spark plugs.

If your car starts hard, don't run your battery down; if it misses and splutters and runs jerkily, don't blame all the trouble on the carburetor or piston rings. Probably all you need is a new set of AC Spark Plugs.

Most manufacturers of fine cars, trucks and tractors equip their engines with AC Spark Plugs, year after year, because they know there is nothing like the old reliable AC to make a motor run smoothly.

Race drivers, aviators and speed-boat pilots insist that their engines be AC-equipped because they want the best plugs money can buy.

You can't go wrong if you follow these experts.

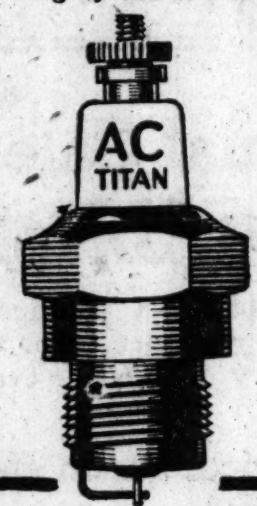

Go to any good dealer today and tell him you want a complete set of AC Plugs specially designed for the car you drive.

Ford Owners: The best spark plug for you is the AC Carbon Proof for Fords. If your Ford dealer does not have this plug, go to any other good dealer and he will supply you.

Have You Enough of This Wonder Working Substance in Your Blood

which science says you must have to enable you to transform the food you eat from lifeless matter into living cells which produce firm flesh (not fat), strong nerves, energy and endurance. Examinations made by doctors show why thousands of people are always weak, nervous and run-down in spite of everything they do.

FREE

The most remarkable miracle of life is the power of your body to transform ordinary food into living cells that build flesh, bone, muscle and tissue. Every minute and every second this miracle change takes place within you. No matter what you eat or how much you eat, if one thing is lacking in your blood it is absolutely impossible for your body to change food into living cells and tissue. Therefore, this wonderful precious substance might well be called the connecting link between lifeless, inert food matter and life itself. This marvelous wonder working substance is a strange unusual kind of iron which science has named Organic Iron. This is found in minute quantities in spinach, lentils and apples. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which is used in manufacturing and which is the kind of iron people usually take. Science has shown that without organic iron, your blood cannot take up oxygen from your lungs and carry it to your digestive organs.

The food you eat contains carbon. As your digested food is absorbed into the blood, the carbon in your food comes in contact with the oxygen carried by the organic iron in your blood. The carbon and oxygen unite and by so doing they give off tremendous energy thereby giving you great force, strength and endurance, and also resulting in the production of material which becomes active living cells and tissue. Without organic iron, your blood carries no oxygen and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food, so what you eat does you no good. It is like putting coal into a stove without fire. You cannot get any heat out of it unless the coal unites with the fire. Therefore, if you want plenty of good firm flesh (not fat) and energy, if you want strong nerves that radiate magnetic force and power, if you want a keen brain that thinks the thoughts that win, you must be able to utilize and get strength and nourishment out of your food.

If you were to see an actual blood test made on all people who are ill, weak, thin, nervous and generally run-down, you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and whose troubles are due solely to this lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved, so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any drugist under the name of "Nuxated Iron," which is ready for immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood the moment it enters the system. Unlike metallic iron, organic Nuxated Iron does not injure or blacken the teeth nor upset the stomach.

If you are thin and emaciated and wish to put on flesh and increase your weight, Nuxated Iron should be tried in connection with organic Nuxated Iron, but DO NOT TAKE VITAMINS UNLESS YOU DESIRE YOUR WEIGHT INCREASED.

Vitamins are exceedingly valuable in putting flesh on thin people, who are too thin as a result of Vitamin deficiency. Some people are naturally too thin and will remain so in spite of Vitamins and everything else. Vitamins will not help everybody, but they are of great value in certain cases. They will not do any harm in any case and it costs you nothing to try them as explained below.

Following the report of the Medical Research Committee, the Board of Directors of the Dae Health Laboratories have arranged to distribute, absolutely free, one million regular $1.00 packages of Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets to users of Nuxated Iron, so that if you want a large package of Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets all you have to do is to purchase NUXATED IRON CO., Detroit, Mich.

Following the report of the Medical Research Committee, the Board of Directors controlling the Dae Health Laboratories have authorized the free distribution of one million large packages of valuable nutrition product as per conditions explained below to aid American people.

a bottle of Nuxated Iron from your dealer and he will give you a regular $1.00 package of "Nuxated Brand" Yeast Vitamins Tablets (containing all three Vitamins) absolutely free. Before commencing to take Yeast Vitamins, take Nuxated Iron for a week or ten days so as to be sure that you have plenty of iron in your blood to enable you to get proper strength and nourishment out of your food. No matter how much food you put into your stomach, remember that all such food and Vitamins are absolutely useless unless your blood has the power to transform digested food substances into living cells and tissue.

WARNING: Be sure to take only "Nuxated Brand" Yeast Vitamins Tablets with Nuxated Iron. Do not be misled by imitations WHICH OFTEN CONTAIN DRUGS. Insist on genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets, pure and unadulterated, prepared from the original formula of Dr. Catrin of the Faculty of Medicine of Paris.

Children can take these tablets with perfect safety and they are often especially useful for growing children who are weak, thin, emaciated or stunted in growth.

We feel confident that we have the best and most efficient Yeast Vitamins Tablets on the market today, but as previously explained, while Vitamins produce surprising effects in some cases, they are less valuable in others. It is for this reason that we prefer you would try a regular $1.00 package at our expense and you can then decide for yourself whether you need Vitamins. Our Nuxated Iron, however, is a product which has been on the market for years. It is used by over four million people every year with such marvelous results in helping those who are weak, nervous and run-down back to health and strength, that it is sold to you with the distinct understanding that it will give you greater power, energy and endurance within two weeks' time or we will refund your money. Sold by all drugists.

FREE $1.00 Coupon

This coupon, if used within one week, entitles you to one regular $1.00 package of one Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets, absolutely free with each bottle of Nuxated Iron that you purchase. If, on account of the immediate postpaid demand for one of these coupons, you are unable to obtain one, you should happen to be temporary out of one of our Yeast Vitamins Tablets, he can easily obtain them from any dealer who carries Nuxated Iron and this coupon and present it to your dealer today.

'BIG BERTHAS' OF FRANCE DEFEND CHANNEL PORTS

German Tells of Cannon Mounted at Calais.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, Jan. 3.—In an exclusive interview, Councillor Flamm, Germany's biggest submarine expert and the builder of the Deutschland and other commercial and war submarines, made the startling assertion today that the French military authorities had obtained the secret of the "Big Berthas" which bombarded Paris and had built six batteries of similar, but improved, cannon. These, he said, are mounted at Calais.

Councillor Flamm made this statement during a discussion of effective means of coast defense against dreadnaughts and submarines and the relative positions of Great Britain, France, and America regarding submarine warfare as offensive and defensive weapons, especially in view of the French desire for and the British fear of this war arm.

"Big ships are infinitely more valuable to Great Britain and Japan than submarines," said Councillor Flamm. "However, if England and Japan need their big ships America needs them also. Therefore, America should find her interests considerably when it is agreed to a submarine reduction."

Says U. S. Needs Submarines.
"For America the submarine is essentially defensive. The Philippines and the Panama canal could be defended against Japan, for example, only by submarines. An American fleet in Japanese waters would be too far from its base for effectiveness."

"For France submarines also would be defensive especially in a war with England. The French coast line, in view of England's obvious and permanent line ship superiority, can only be defended by submarines. France could easily block the English channel. Her other means for an offensive are her big guns, mounted at Calais, with which she could bombard London."

"For Japan the submarine is an offensive weapon. In a war with America her submarines could attack the Philippine islands and the Panama canal."

Would Prevent Italy's Doom.
"For Italy the submarine is a necessity, otherwise Malta and Gibraltar would almost seal the nation's doom. During the war German submarines passed Gibraltar easily."

"For England the submarine is both offensive and defensive."

"I have now perfected plans for a submarine developing 25 knots, completely armored, mounting two 21 centimeter cannons, and carrying fifty torpedoes. I am informed that England has just laid the keel of a 20,000 ton submarine cruiser which is, in reality, a line ship with only a tower exposed."

ATTENDS WAKE; KILLED.
Four men are being held by the Shaker's avenue police following the death yesterday of Walter N. Kowalski, 6649 Emily street, Norwood Park, who suffered a fractured skull during a brawl at a wake.

HELD AS BOTH

ROSE GAYLOR—JIMMY DOLAN

INTRODUCING "The Mysterious Which," let us say, which Policeman P. J. Lee found at the corner of Washington and La Salle streets yesterday. She told the policeman her name was Rose Gaylor, 18 years old, who lived with an aunt, Mrs. Edward Gaylor at 4448 West Van Buren street. She said she was looking for a job. Then Policeman Lee and it adjourned to the South Clark street annex.

"O! what a nice little boy you are!" quoth Matron Shea. "Aw! Gwan! I'm a girl!" it said.

"Nix!" smiled the matron. "You can fool the coppers, but you can't fool me—you're a boy!"

"All right—I'm a boy!" it agreed. "My name's Jimmy Dolan and I live on West Van Buren. This masquerading is just for the fun of the thing."

But the boy and girl were both held pending investigation.

THOSE RUSSIAN BONDS COOL OFF FRENCH ENMITY

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Briand is determined to limit the agenda of the coming supreme council meeting at Cannes to two questions, reparations and the economic restoration of central Europe. It was indicated in authoritative quarters today.

It is known that the French delegation agrees in principle to Germany's making four payments of 155,000,000 gold marks each in January, February, March, and April, although Premier Briand has insisted that nothing binding was decided with Prime Minister Lloyd George during the recent conversations in London, inasmuch as Belgium and Italy were not represented there. It was semi-officially stated today, however, that he consented to a delay of the 1922 German payments, except for 500,000,000 gold marks, as well as to other measures intended to relieve Germany.

Although Germany's ability to pay the 500,000,000 gold marks is generally accepted in French circles, Germany still is officially on record as being unable to pay more than one-third of this amount.

Willing to Meet Russia.

France has no objection to the calling in of Russia and German representatives at the proposed economic conference if their presence is essential to the restoration of central Europe. It was learned by the Associated Press today. The pressure from French holders of Russian pre-war bonds, amounting to between 15,000,000,000 and 17,000,000,000 francs, is said to have had much to do with the French government receding from its previous hostile attitude toward meeting representatives of the soviet.

Nikolai Lenin's recent statement to the soviet congress in Moscow that private property must be guaranteed had a good effect on the French holders of Russian bonds and is declared also to have made the government less hesitant at meeting delegates from the soviet.

Italy to Urge Soviet's Cause.
LONDON, Jan. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Italy is expected to propose at the approaching conference at Cannes the summoning of a preliminary meeting of the great powers in Italy to discuss the question of relations with Russia, according to a dispatch to the London Times.

BANKRUPTCY SUIT IS FILED AGAINST INSTANT HEAT CO.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States District court against the Instant Heat corporation.

Plaintiffs are Johanna Burkland, with a claim of $3,150; Ernestine Schroeder, with a claim of $900, and Matilda Schroeder, with a claim of $1,050. All are represented by Attorney Isadore Wolfsohn.

The petition alleges that stocks to the amount of the claims of the petitioners were sold them on "false and fraudulent representations."

AID FAMILIES OF DEAD FIREMEN IS PLEA OF COUNCIL

Contributions Asked of Everyone.

Appeals to Chicago citizens to contribute to the fund being raised for the families of three firemen who lost their lives in a collision at Division and Larrabee streets on New Year's day were voiced yesterday by numerous civic and commercial leaders.

At the request of the city council Mayor Thompson issued an official proclamation asking aid of every citizen. "I feel certain that an appeal to the generosity of the people of the city of Chicago to contribute to a fund for so worthy an object will not be in vain," the proclamation reads. He appointed the following on a committee to supervise the collection and distribution of the fund:

Eugene R. Pike, president of Lincoln

Park commissioners; Edward E. Gore, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; William Wrigley Jr.; D. F. Kelly, vice president of Mandel Brothers; Albert W. Goodrich, president of Goodrich Transportation company; Aid, John A. Robert and Edward R. Armitage; John F. Cullerton, business manager, fire department; Sheldon Clark, president Sinclair Refining company; J. M. Kirkley, president Chicago Fire Pans association; Thomas Kearney, president Chicago Building Trades council; Patrick J. Egan, fifth assistant fire marshal, and Herman Wadcock, vice president and treasurer of the Continental and Commercial National bank.

All checks to the fund for the benefit of the families of the stricken firemen are to be made payable to the Continental and Commercial National bank. A reward of $1,500 has been offered by the city council for the arrest of the persons responsible for the alarm. Several suspects are held at various police stations.

FIVE BOYS HELD.
Five boys were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $57,000 on nineteen charges of burglary, by Judge Moran in the Boys' court.

THE UNITED STATES IS NOT THE MORAL DEBTOR OF EUROPE.

Bishop Edgar Blake of the Methodist church in France and Italy is now in this country, and he has made a number of statements regarding the sacrifices of France and the comparative immunity of the United States in the war. "France was shedding blood while America was coining money," "The allies furnished men; America furnished money."

The Rev. Mr. Blake is an American, and he is talking to Americans who may soon persuade themselves that the United States is the moral debtor to the rest of the world. There should be a decided reexamination of this point of view in the United States. American self-respect should not tolerate it. It is a reflection upon Americans who suffered in the war and it is injurious to the country. It might affect American position and American action.

Of all the nations engaged in the war the United States alone had nothing to do with its cause, and of all the winning nations the United States alone won nothing from victory. The causes of the war were more distant from American life than the scene of it was from American shores.

It sprang naturally out of the traditions, the rivalries, the diplomacy and intrigues of Europe. Europe was accustomed to fighting such wars. It had dynasties and governments which prepared for them, armed for them, and sought occasion for them.

The people of Europe had not brought about a state of government which could prevent them or showed much willingness to do so. The people of Europe knew they lived by military alliances. They maintained great armies and navies. They were in conflict with each other in pushing towards new lands and taking over new territories.

When it was not one nation which was the dangerous aggressor it was another. It was a restless, ambitious, dangerous scheme, known to be such, and war after war had been produced by it. From these expansive schemes and military alliances and secret treaties the United States was free. The people of Europe either supported or tolerated the scheme of rivalry, threat, and danger. The responsibility was upon them, but Americans could say neither yes nor nay.

The United States could not tell France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Russia, and Great Britain that armed climb jumpers would get into trouble, and did not need to tell them. Their history told them that, and the size of their armies and navies indicated that they were prepared for it.

They knew the natural consequences of their plans and operations was war. France, Great Britain, and Germany nearly had it over North Africa. Italy got it with Turkey over North Africa. Austria was bound to get it with Russia over the Balkans. The Balkan nations got it. The scheme produced, as it was expected to produce, a great war.

In this war the United States could have ruined the allies by closing its markets and placing embargoes on munitions and foodstuffs. It was one great fear the allies had that the German element in American citizenship would succeed in stopping trade with Europe. The benevolent neutrality of the United States was all that the allies asked, and they knew their salvation was to be found in American industry. What was then a necessity to them is now regarded as a shame to the United States. Some Americans are beginning to believe that the allies were fighting for the United States and that America was withholding its men while it made money by selling goods to its defenders.

It is a nation's duty to avoid war so long as it possibly can. It is the moral duty of a government to avoid war if it can be avoided. When war for the United States could no longer be avoided, in the opinion of the American government, it was undertaken on a scale regardless of men or money.

The American army was in what was virtually one great offensive. In that offensive, which was the final one, the American casualties were 45,000 dead and nearly 200,000 wounded. That was a sacrifice similar to what the French made in the unsuccessful Champagne offensive and to what the British made in the unsuccessful Somme offensive, which were gigantic and deadly encounters in the earlier years of the war.

When the war was won the American army came home and the United States withdrew without a penny asked in reparations or a foot of land taken as compensation—things no other winner can say. These American sacrifices were made in a war of which the origin and causes were as remote from American participation or responsibility as if they had been found in the moon. There never before in history had been so great a military effort made by a nation so innocent of blame.

We hope living Americans will not be a reproach to their dead by admitting into their minds for an instant the thought that the United States is Europe's moral debtor, a slacker in its own cause, and delinquent to its own ideals. The fathers of these American soldiers had a great war for a great moral idea, and the living of them will say that they got little aid from Europe in behalf of the moral cause. That moral cause was nearly lost by the advantage Europe took of the danger to the United States.

The United States does not face its future owing Europe anything.

THE "CHECKOFF" SYSTEM.

The checkoff system is involved in recent rumors of impending difficulties in the mining industry. The Circuit Court of Appeals has declared the system, whereby coal operators in effect maintain unions which keep up wages and overhead, and so keep up the price of coal, is legal. The decision drew attention to the nefarious agreement, which is in effect a conspiracy, however technically legal and under which coal prices are maintained at levels which impose a burden upon the entire industry of the country.

What if it is legal? That does not make it just. There is no proper reason why a business should contribute to the strength of an organization which is seeking to extort toll from it, and so from the public. It is legal for operators to hold out a percentage of miners' wages and pay that sum into the miners' union to hold the union together that the operators may have something to fight. We may not be able to stop the practice by injunction under the present laws. But it is also legal for them to refuse thus to finance the organization which preys upon the public through them.

If the miners want a union they should have the privilege of maintaining one. But if their members are not sufficiently in favor of a union to pay their dues voluntarily they should not be drafted into it. The draft is an implement of war, not of peace. No business can justly be forced to provide the alms of war for an attack upon itself. When it submits it does so because it is thereby diverting the attack to the public, from which it takes a profit.

As long as such an arrangement exists the operators are subscribing to a conspiracy to molest the public. Under this arrangement a miners' organization nearly double the numbers actually needed to mine all the coal required annually in the United States has grown up and is dictating wages high enough to support its members in idleness for about half the year. The operators are passing these costs along to the public, with as much added as the traffic will bear. The price enters into the cost of virtually everything we use in daily life.

Coal prices must go down before the country can complete its post-war readjustment. Undoubtedly high wages paid to support men in idleness are helping to keep them up. A step toward bringing them down is to stop the checkoff. If it cannot be stopped by law from without it should be stopped by the operators from within. There are too many miners. This action probably would remove some of them. The result could then be fewer wages rather than lower wages. That is, fewer men would work more days a year, with less waste, lower overhead, and reduced costs and prices.

THE MIDDLE WEST'S OPPORTUNITY.

The hastened trend of the dominating influence in the United States senate from east to west, which follows the passing of Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, affords inspiration of hope for the central states of the country. The square deal in congress sought by the middle west now appears more likely of realization. With the extraordinary influence of Senator Penrose removed, and the organization of Atlantic coast interests thereby shaken, it becomes more probable that the needs of the middle west may be presented and supported on their merits rather than in competition with the demands and requirements of the east.

One thing is necessary to realize on that hope. That is a united and aggressive public opinion in the middle west in support of our proper claims upon congressional activities, and in support of the men who can make such claims effective. Such unity of public opinion and support requires appreciation and understanding of our common interests. One of the best rallying points for such public opinion lies in the "Pittsburgh Plus" evil as it exists today.

"Pittsburgh Plus" is the practice of the steel mills of charging middle western consumers of rolled steel products the cost of the finished steel at Pittsburgh plus the imaginary freight to the point of consumption, or an additional price of $7.50 per ton in Chicago, above the proper price of such steel manufactured at our doors in Gary. It means an additional charge of $13.50 a ton at Duluth, and a varying excess, greater or less, throughout the entire middle west.

This toll of imaginary freight rates, never paid to the railroads, but going into the pockets of the steel producers, is estimated at more than $75,000,000 a year. That $75,000,000 a year comes out of the pockets of men in every walk of life. That is the point which needs emphasis in the plea for greater unity of public opinion.

The farmer, it is estimated by the American Farm Bureau federation, uses an average of 3,800 pounds of steel a year in various forms. Allowing nothing for the added cost of doing business, or the added profits on such cost by fabricators, that would mean an additional annual toll of more than $10 a year to each farmer in the Chicago district and more than $20 to each in northern Minnesota, the Dakotas, western Iowa, and Nebraska. That ought to centralize farmers' opinions on the evils of "Pittsburgh Plus."

City men pay even a higher price. The additional cost to the new federal reserve bank of Chicago alone has been estimated at $60,000. Every new building in every middle western town contributes to this toll according to the amount of steel it requires. Every manufacturer and consumer of machinery, every fabricator of rolled steel products pays. Every consumer of manufactured goods of any description pays because of the higher cost of such manufacture due to higher cost of plant and equipment.

The farmer and the city man pay together because of the higher cost of good concrete roads for their communication. The good roads program now laid out in this country is said to require 11,000,000 tons of steel.

Unquestionably this is a subject which should touch the thought of every resident of the middle west and crystallize that thought into concentrated public opinion. It should unite city and country for the common good. It should influence the federal trade commission which is considering the "Pittsburgh Plus" subject to forget partisanship in favor of justice. It should influence congress to the same end. If that is done, the middle west will get the St. Lawrence seaway and the lakes to Gulf waterway, and various other things which are our right, and in the truest sense are the need of the nation.

Editorial of the Day

OUR SLOW BARONS.

[Decatur Review.]

Mr. Hoover tells us that coal from England is selling in this country. Perhaps not a great deal, but there is some. When the barons hear about this they will rush to congress and ask for an import duty that will put a stop to the thing.

The barons should be told that they will have to find some other way to keep out English coal, if they want it done. They should be able to do this without special legislation to help them. Certainly it must cost an Englishman his money to lay down a ton of coal here; our barons can get under his price if they are worth their salt.

If they can't, it will take more than duties to save them.

It takes so little to tickle people—
A movie star tumbles from some tall steep.

Slipped in the eye of a big fat guy.
A limp or a squint, or the merest hint
Of strange, unusual defects, and the people
And people are simply convulsed with glee.

It takes so little to cheer humanity—
Give them the least Pollyanna insanity.
Pipe the beatitudes, whistle plain platitudes,
Sing bromides and balm: "When sufficed, be calm."
"When downcast, be glad," "be happy, tho' sad."

I was in Paris last summer and verified them.
It was early in the career of D'Artagnan—in those first days of his in Paris, when sorry colored peas and provincial dress were as yet eye clear in his background, before his love for Mme. Boniface had blossomed rose full, and ere the knocking
M. Boniface had gone informing to the Cardinal.
D'Artagnan and Constantine, with M. Boniface were supplying their evening supper and Constantine had been forced by the intensive, insistent garrulity of her husband to neglect the future Guardians in her conversation, and M. Boniface, in a moment's peevishness seized the large wooden bowl of salad and jammed it inverted on the luck-less innkeeper's head. M. Boniface, with the with the oil running down his face all bowered in the vegetation, and Constantine cried, "Que faites vous?" To which D'Artagnan aptly replied: "Ah, I fais, j'ai pensé à la dent des dents!" This can be referred to for authenticity in "Aronders Early Days of Paris," by A. Ruos, third chapter, second book; it is in the original French. GASON.

VEGETABLES VS. MEATS.

FOR a long time the vegetarians have waged a bitter war on the custom of meat eating. As a rule, the food faddists have no standing among thinking people, because of their wild theories, and the wild things they do.

When it comes to influencing the thought of the times, the vegetarian is about as impotent as the other members of the tribe of food faddists.

But every now and then some tidbit of truth will come to the top in the sea of error which we know as food faddism. Every now and then some really scientific discovery will be found to support some one of these theories.

Here are some recent facts which support the opinions of the vegetarians. Metchnikoff taught that degeneration of the arterial walls and other evidences of senility resulted from the prolonged absorption of the large intestine of products of putrefaction of proteids.

He advised the drinking of soured milk. This steadily led to a recommendation of a particularly strong acid producing bacillus, taken by mouth, on the theory that it would locate permanently in the intestine, and there grow over and drive out the bacilli which caused putrefaction of proteids.

In practice this bacillus was given as a medicine, and somehow we lost sight of the simple diet consisting largely of coarse bread and sour milk which first attracted Metchnikoff's attention. Whatever hope for improvement there was in Metchnikoff's suggestion was lost when the practice got away from the original diet.

Kendall and others found that the strong acid bacilli did not belong in the intestines; were not at home there, and would not stay.

Other scientists found that it was easy enough to change the bacteria in the intestines, but that the way to do it was to change the diet. Taking bacteria out of a spoon got you nowhere unless you first changed the diet.

One of the other scientists found that it was easy enough to change the bacteria in the intestines, but that the way to do it was to change the diet. Taking bacteria out of a spoon got you nowhere unless you first changed the diet.

On the other hand, the products from vegetables and fruits make less harmful putrefaction products. The fermentation products coming from the starchy parts of foods are far less harmful still.

If the products of fermentation of the starchy portion are harmless, and the products of putrefaction of the proteid part of vegetables are but slightly harmful.

ALL IN VIRGINIA.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—The janitor sent me on Burlington street the habit of cleaning the sidewalks in front of this building very early in the morning on holidays and Sundays. Is there a specified time when this work should be done, and is there any distinction between work days and holidays and Sundays? L. G.

Section 261 of the criminal code provides that "whoever disturbs the peace and good order of society by labor (waste of necessity and charity excepted) on Sunday shall be fined not exceeding $25. Section 262 provides that "whoever shall be guilty of any crime on Sunday or on a day when the peace of any private family may be disturbed, shall be fined not exceeding $25."

You might try getting the police to enforce these sections. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGALITY OF AGE.
Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—I. What is the age required to obtain a marriage license in Chicago without the parents' consent? 2. If a person is married in Crown Point, Ind., can the marriage be annulled in Illinois? H. C. L.

1. Male, 21; female, 18.
2. Depends on the facts of the case. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GETTING A LICENSE.
Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—I. Must both parties be present to secure a marriage license? The lady does not live in Illinois. Is a license issued in Illinois valid in Michigan? H. B.

WELL, JUST FOR ONCE WE'LL LET YOU.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—For once I must disagree with the old "Trib." You fellows are great on the heavy stuff, but when it comes to naming a bridge! [Censored.] Jimmy, do not burden Chicago with any "Jay stuff." "Victory" bridge would be great. But for Chicago this is a very poor suggestion. "Victory" is not a name. Chicago has no great reason to be proud of this bridge. Instead we should have dozens of great suburbs under this little stream, or close to it, except as a drainage. We are being "bridged" regularly "after fifty years." The most appropriate name for the bridge would be "Fort Dearborn" first and "Lincoln" second.

"OLD TIMER."

ALEXANDER HAMILTON BRIDGE.
Chicago, Dec. 28.—Behind the scenes in the actual success of the American revolution stood a figure that eventually was pushed to the fore as the greatest American that has ever lived, and I would suggest that the Michigan boulevard bridge be named after this man—Alexander Hamilton. H. G. E.

KILLING TWO BIRDS WITH ONE BRICK.
Chicago, Dec. 29.—Call the boulevard link "Liberty bond," bond having the same meaning as "link," but a more elegant sound. This would commemorate our great war and also the Illinois centennial as Bond was the name of Illinois' first governor, MARSHALL MANDVILLE.

"COIN BRIDGE."
Chicago, Dec. 28.—I have noticed a good many suggestions for the name of the big bridge. I would suggest you call it the "Coin" bridge. It cost considerable coin, but I think it is worth every dollar spent on it. DANIEL J. COYNE.

THE SIXTH YOTE FOR "FORT DEARBORN."
Chicago, Dec. 26.—I think "Fort Dearborn" bridge is the logical name. NEWTON R. STONE.

"POTTAWATOMIE."
Chicago, Dec. 29.—Why not call it the "Pottawatomie" bridge? That tribe of Indians lived along these shores. W. H. F.

"I WILL."
I want to suggest calling the new link bridge "I Will," expressing Chicago's spirit. BLUNTO TRAUB.

"THE CHICAGO BRIDGE."
Chicago, Dec. 28.—I would like to see it christened the "Chicago" bridge. THOMAS ROBERTS.

LET EUROPE DISARM AND PAY.
Chicago, Dec. 27.—The following letter is from Mr. F. R. Welles, who has lived for some thirty odd years in France and has recently returned to this country. His views are those of a first hand observer of wide experience and of intelligence. He was in France during the war.

"I should like, however, to offer for the consideration of your friends who advocate wiping out debts of Europe to the United States some arguments on the other side.

In the first place, the American and British troops in France paid their way during the war, and paid very liberally. The American soldier was well paid and spent most of his money as soon as he got it.

"The thrifty French country people profited largely by these outgoes, and are now a deal richer than American farmers. You can find any few of them who have not a box stowed away full of money and bonds. And they have had good crops, which they sell at good prices. Compare that situation with the present one of the farming community in this country. The French farmer pays almost no taxes, being specially favored in that respect.

"The other argument often made for wiping out the debts—that payment must be made in goods, which would reduce employment in this country—applies equally well to the collection of any debt whatever. Suppose a bank makes a loan to a manufacturing concern. It would obviously be a kindness to the manufacturer to wipe it out, and the bank might make up for it by working harder. But what banker takes that philanthropic view of the case? We can doubtless wipe out those debts and make up by working harder. But meanwhile the debtors have been squandering in all sorts of follies, including military expeditions and big armies, the money they ought to have kept to pay us off. If they can keep up those exaggerated armaments, why should they not pay their debts?" CHAS. A. BROWN.

BUT WHO IS TO FORCE ARM REDUCTION?
Manchester, England, Dec. 12.—France owes the United States approximately $2,880,000,000 and is not paying interest on that amount; it has, therefore, to be paid by American taxpayers, and is a heavy and unnecessary burden. France has ample funds to pay interest, but prefers squandering them on a huge army. Would it not be desirable to inform the French government that American taxpayers are not prepared to be saddled with the payment of the interest any longer? France must reduce her army and with the amount saved relieve American taxpayers by paying interest as well as sinking fund, on the loans she has received.

Belgium, Great Britain and Italy also owe the United States enormous loans and are not paying interest, which is, therefore, also charged to American taxpayers. It is also charged to American taxpayers, as ample funds would then be available for the payment of interest. Could not an organized effort be made to concentrate public opinion on the point, so as to bring it under the notice of the conference now at work in Washington? T. SINORIN.

THE RAILROADERS' PROTEST.
Chicago, Dec. 30.—In a pamphlet gotten out by the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank the cudgel has been taken up by them, as by all financial institutions, to take a slap at labor unions, chiefly railroad labor unions. They state that railroad employees are planning to raise a scale of pay 100 per cent higher than before the war. They ask the question: "How can shippers pay freight charges based on such a scale, seeing that prices at wholesale are down 45 per cent?" I will ask them how many railroad employees buy at wholesale. I will ask them if the McKay & McKay Real Estate company, who, incidentally, are the men behind the gun in this case, have reduced rents 45 per cent to the railroad men. If they answer "yes" I will deduct 45 per cent when paying my rent to them next month. It is well known that through the period of prosperity they still paid 2 per cent on savings deposits, while reaping from 15 to 40 per cent on this money under the guise of interest and commission.

4,000,000 VISIT COUNTY PARKS IN YEAR, RYAN SAYS

As a place for family outings, picnics and recreation for the children of the county, the parks have been well patronized, says Daniel Ryan, president of the county board and of the forest preserve district. Ryan, who presided over the annual meeting of the board yesterday, said that more than 4,000,000 persons visited the parks last year, and is an indication of the popularity of the parks.

DANIEL RYAN.

The thanks of the commissioners of the forest preserve district are given to the citizens who have made the parks a place for family outings, picnics and recreation for the children of the county.

Victor F. Lawson, Dwight H. Perkins, William A. Peterson, John C. Vaughan, Charles H. Wacker, and Col. Robert R. McCormick, for their aid in selecting and beautifying the preserve.

Mrs. William G. Hibbard of Winnetka, Ill., was chosen a member of this committee. The committee was announced. She is the first woman to occupy this position.

SMALL'S ALLIES DOWNSTATE ARE QUITTING CAMP

Leaders Bring Word of Desertions.

Downstate Republicans who support months of his term left him in large numbers during the latter half of 1921, according to moderate reports which reached Chicago yesterday.

They were received during the first day of a sort of three-day "open house" held by United States Senators W. B. McKinley and Medill McCormick at the Union League club for their political friends.

Many of those who attended considered it a belated New Year's reception, but others who listened intently look upon it as a sort of an inventory or taking of stock at the first of the year. It was their observation that downstate Republicans were deserting in their several sections uniformly.

It is expected that the Cook county situation will be taken up some time during the next two days.

Various subjects were said to have been taken up by different callers—federal appointments, legislative contests, and matters connected with the further development of the McCormick-McKinley organization throughout the state. But it was denied that the "talk fest" had as one of its objects the organization of a legislative battle against Gov. Small.

In fact, the best information that could be obtained on this subject was that the opinion of the organization leaders was that each legislative district should solve its own problem in the April primaries.

It also was said to have been made plain that none of the three Illinois district attorneys will be filled until about next May, when the contents of the bubbling political pot probably will have been clarified by the primary.

13 DOWNSTATERS AGREE TO OPPOSE COOK FREEZEOUT

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—(Special.)—The Illinois constitutional convention adjourned today until Jan. 31 without having transacted any actual business.

Downstate and Chicago delegates were much nearer an agreement over the technical proposal of limitation of Cook county's legislative representation than they have been at any previous stage.

Thirteen downstate delegates gave definite assurance to the Cook county contingent that they would never vote for the so-called "county representation" plan. With this assurance, the upstate delegation, under Charles H. Hamill, authorized in caucus as the delegation's spokesman, did not hesitate to proceed with the recess plan.

It is expected that the Cook county situation will be taken up some time during the next two days.

Various subjects were said to have been taken up by different callers—federal appointments, legislative contests, and matters connected with the further development of the McCormick-McKinley organization throughout the state. But it was denied that the "talk fest" had as one of its objects the organization of a legislative battle against Gov. Small.

In fact, the best information that could be obtained on this subject was that the opinion of the organization leaders was that each legislative district should solve its own problem in the April primaries.

It also was said to have been made plain that none of the three Illinois district attorneys will be filled until about next May, when the contents of the bubbling political pot probably will have been clarified by the primary.

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prizes for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Honorable, Truthful, and Loyal.

George Washington well may be called "the Father of His Country." In the days when America was young, it was Washington who urged her on to greater things. It was he who made America a better country.

As head of his army or as head of his country; he was the same noble character; honorable, truthful, and loyal to God, his country, and his parents.

We need not wonder that America is so great; when in its earliest days it was ruled by such a man as Washington.

America in her earliest days fought for her very existence, and we now look back in our glory to our forefathers' time, to our country in its years of struggle and strife, and O, how thankful we should be that God blessed America with such a man as Washington.

He was great, not because he was President alone, but because he was great of character.

Ever obedient and loyal to his country, how could one doubt that he was also to his good parents.

He listened to his good mother's teachings, and practiced these virtues. Washington is truly "the greatest American."

Now that America is a great country we lay our gratitude before him.

He fought for us, and stood by us in deceleration and hardships. He taught us many great lessons, among them, obedience and love for parents. He says with pride, "All that I am, I owe to my angel mother." He even seeks her blessing before he took his Presidential chair.

We cannot all be Presidents, but we can serve our country through loyalty, honor, and truth.

Greatest of All.

The purest name in history is George Washington. He is also "the father of our country."

Although Washington received a limited education, his mother read much to him in his youth.

He was always eager and ready to and manner, never trivial, which women love and men respect, and he had the courage which the world honors.

Washington's services were always in demand by the government because he was a man of success in anything he undertook, a man of ability—a superman.

Washington was never selfish, always helping every one as best he could. As commander in chief of the colonial armies he would never ask his men to do anything that he would not do himself. He possessed self respect for every one.

He was brave, courageous, and fearless, never giving up until his task was properly completed, whether large or small. His mind could concentrate where others faltered.

When he became heir to Mount Vernon he became a man of wealth, but riches did not spoil him. He did not seek ease but only work and honor.

Washington always lived an honest, gentle, pure, affectionate, and noble life, and the name "George Washington" will always live in history as the greatest of all men of all ages.

Better Trucks at Better Prices

That is what the New Year's price reductions on GMC Trucks mean to truck buyers—better trucks which tell their own story of sturdy service and economy—better prices which place these trucks at the front in present-day motor truck values.

These substantial savings in dollars are, however, small in comparison with the saving made possible through the life of a GMC by the economy and efficiency features of its construction.

Such improvements as removable cylinder walls, pressure lubrication, removable valve lifter assemblies, dual cooling system, superheated carburetion, and a positive speed governor are factors that are money makers and trouble savers every day.

The GMC Two-Range Transmission, standard in all models of two ton capacity and greater, has given these trucks more utility because it furnishes speed and pulling power in the same chassis, and does it without the use of a huge, costly power plant.

All these vital points of superiority are enhanced by such refinements as electric lights, generator and magneto, to make GMC trucks, better motor trucks.

And their better prices, at the factory, (plus war tax) are as follows: One Ton, $1495. Two Ton, $2775. Three and one-half Ton, $3950. Five Ton, $4350.

1922 COMES TO BAT AND FINDS ALEX TWIRLING

BUSY ON SCHEDULES

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Jan. 3.—Discussions preliminary to the 1922 schedules of the National and American leagues were begun here today by John Heydler and B. B. Johnson, the league presidents. Dates for the opening of the leagues probably will be determined tomorrow, it was announced after today's meeting.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If there is anything to the old saying about the early bird getting the worm, then Grover Cleveland Alexander is worth a bet. Although the spring training season is still some months distant, the great Alex is already at work on Catfish Island, where the Cubs will pitch their camp next month. This information was brought back to Chicago yesterday by William Veck, Bruin president, who spent Christmas in the far west.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex have parked themselves in a bungalow on the island and to reach the ball park the veteran hurler has only to step across the street.

Plays Golt to Get Fit.

He hasn't been giving his arm much work, so far as actual hurling is concerned, but the wing muscles are getting their share of play in daily rounds of golf. Mountain climbing is another part of his conditioning program. Much depends on Alex during the coming season. He is the man around whom Manager Killam must rally his pitching forces, and Alex knows this. That's why he has gone to work ahead of the whistle. Last season an injury to his pitching arm, and the fact that he found Manager Evers an impossible taskmaster, caused him to lose some of his old time effectiveness, but he won't have such handicaps in 1922 and should be as consistent a winner as a couple of years back.

Island Park in Shape.

Veck also brought back word that everything is in readiness on the island to receive the Cubs. The ball park, although leveled off only recently, boasts as fine a carpet of grass as could be grown. Dressing rooms and baths have been installed on the grounds and a grand stand is about to be constructed.

GETS 3 YEARS FOR BETTING ON WORLD'S SERIES

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.—Carl Abraham, 19, a bank teller, today was sentenced to three years in the reformatory after he confessed he utilized $21,500 of his firm's money for world's series betting. He said $14,000 of the amount was sent to New York by a friend to be placed for him. The friend was apprehended and $13,800 recovered.

Pitcher Vernon Parks

Becomes a Benedick

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Announcement of the marriage of Vernon H. ("Slicker") Parks, former star Michigan pitcher, to Miss Violet Bradt, of Windsor, Ont., was received here tonight. Parks joined the Detroit Tigers last year and pitched several games. He has been sent to the Portland club for the 1922 season.

Maroon-De Paul Basket Game Postponed to Jan. 16

The basketball game between the University of Chicago and De Paul, scheduled for last night at Bartlett gym, was postponed, and will be staged Jan. 16. The Maroon football squad was entertained last night at a theater party, and as six members of the Maroon basketball squad are also football players, Coach Nels Norgren asked Coach Haggerty of De Paul for a postponement. The Maroons play the Camp Benning, Ga., five tonight at 8 o'clock.

O'FARRELL STARS, BUT LOSES.

West Side Brown defeated Waukegan post of the American Legion, 34 to 29, in a hot basketball game at Waukegan. Bobby O'Farrell of the Chicago Cubs and Torquato featured for Waukegan, the former sinking 8 field goals.

MAY PASS UP BALL CONTRACT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—O'Neil, 19 year old Pittsburgh golfer and football and baseball star athlete, who has been sent a contract to report next spring to the Birmingham Southern association club, said he would not sign at this time in view of his collegiate athletic future.

ZBYNSKO FLOPS BICKLEY.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 3.—Wladek Zbynsko defeated Cliff Bickley of Columbus, O., in a wrestling match here tonight in two straight falls.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

TUCK BEES AWAY AND GET READY FOR SPRING RUSH.

An apary can be run at less expense than any other back yard industry that suburbanites deal with. If the bees are handled rightly, they gather enough food to last them the year round, and produce enough surplus honey the first season or two, to more than pay for the equipment needed to run an apary. Most beginners in the bee business start with only a few hives, increasing the number of colonies each year. The majority of them seldom have more than eight or ten hives at the start, unless going into the business on a commercial scale.

Several suburban aparyists around Chicago eliminate practically all the expense of bee keeping, by building their own hives, frames, and other equipment. Up on the north shore there is a bee keeper, typical of many others nearby, who begins to prepare for the next season as soon as his bees are tucked away for the winter. He builds practically all his equipment, including hives and supers. About the only things he buys for his apary are frames and foundations.

ELKS HAVE LUSTY LINE TO OPPOSE SUPREMES

The Morris Supremes will face a strong line in meeting the Gary Elks Sunday on the indoor tankard gridiron at the international amphitheater. The Elks have Riley of Indiana and Czarnecki of Penn State at tackles; Blocker, former Purdue star, at center, and Hanke of Minnesota at end. Venker, former Villa Nova player, will pilot the Elks.

A good crowd is expected, as it will be Elks' day. County Treasurer Carr will kick off the first ball. The curtain raiser, at 1:30 o'clock, will be played between two 160 pound outlaws, Davis Maroons and Hamburg A. A.

Eddie Kane's Collarbone Broken in Taxi Accident

Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, aspirant for the crown worn by Jack Dempsey, is propped up in bed in a Chicago hotel nursing a broken collar bone. The damage was done in St. Paul, where Kane passed the holidays with his parents. He was hurrying to a train to bring him to Chicago, when the taxi in which he was riding skidded into the curb and threw him out. He managed to make the train, although the injury caused him great pain and on his arrival here immediately went under the care of a physician.

Barney Coss, Former Cub Hurler, Signs Life Contract

SEEK WELLING IN RUINS OF FIRE AND FIND STILL

New York, Jan. 3.—Two stills, two barrels of liquor and nine barrels of mash were found by the police tonight in the fire swept ruins of the Beech Hurst Country club at Whitestone, which had been leased as training and sleeping quarters by Joe and Frank Welling, pugilists. Fears were expressed when the fire broke out today that the Welling boys had perished, but a search of the ruins failed to reveal trace of any bodies. Later the police learned that the Wellings had been seen after the fire several miles away.

ANOTHER WILLS-TATE RING SCRAP ON FRIDAY

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of The Tribune boxing representatives are:
At Omaha, Neb.—Jack Lawler beat Johnny Noye (10). Harry Doyle defeated Mickey Brown (5). Duke Dural beat Benny Levy on foul (5).
At Trenton, N. J.—Tony Capone beat Tommy Cleary (10). Ray Mitchell beat Kid Emmes (6).
At York, Pa.—Johnny Gill defeated Billy Richards (11).

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Harry Wills and Bill Tate, who attempted a bout yesterday to decide the colored heavyweight championship in the Milwaukee ring, a bout which ended in a one round fiasco, when Wills was disqualified for fouling, will battle again. They will meet in the same ring next Friday night, ten rounds to a decision, with Tommy Louttit, the same referee, in the ring.

With everybody connected with the show yesterday and the fans all "hot up," the Milwaukee commission met in the First National Bank building, with members of the Portland commission, Wills, his manager, Paddy Mullins, Kid Howard, manager of Tate, Frank Kendall, the club matchmaker, and George Moore, manager of the arena.

Moore declared yesterday's fiasco had killed boxing in this state, and that Friday's meeting to a decision was the only way to revive it. Moore agreed to put on four preliminary bouts, paying the fighters out of his own pocket, and to charge no admission to the fight.

Every man who has the stub of his ticket will be given the seat he occupied yesterday afternoon. Those not at yesterday's fight will be asked to pay $2 and to take any unoccupied seat. The money taken at the door last night, before 6 p. m. Wednesday, will be added to the purse already earned by each fighter.

BIG ENTRY SURE FOR I. A. C. GAMES

Charles A. Dean, chairman of the athletic committee of the Illinois A. C., yesterday declared that a record field would compete in the annual open indoor handicap track and field games of the Tricolor club at the Broadway armory on Jan. 27.

"RABBIT" DENIES TROUBLE ON CLUB

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 3.—Walter J. Maranville, star Pittsburgh shortstop, tonight denied at his home here reports of friction between himself and Max Carey, captain of the Pirates. Recent stories stated that either Maranville or Carey was to be traded.

Johnny Wilson Is Suspended for Refusing to Fight Greb

BY HARRY NEWMAN.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The New York state athletic commission today announced that Jawn Wilson, champion middleweight, has been indefinitely suspended for refusing to fight a contract made with Tex Rickard to fight Harry Greb at Madison Square Garden next month.

When Wilson publicly consented to fight Greb, it occasioned general surprise among the fight fans. They could not figure Wilson stepping in with such a rough customer. Now that he has taken the roughest route, wise birds feel their judgment sustained.

It is expected that the Massachusetts boxing moguls will take some action against Wilson following the action of the local authorities today.

Johnny Wilson will carry out his contract to meet Harry Greb or he won't fight any more, Rickard said today. Tex fumed when he heard Wilson's statement that he had signed to meet Greb in Madison Square Garden only to get the $37,500 purse money.

NO LEONARD-DUNDEE GO

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Bennie Leonard and his party left here this morning for New York. Before train time Manager Billy Gibson announced that the proposed match with Johnny Dundee here Jan. 12 was called off, saying the match would draw much better in the east.

The boxing commission today held a post mortem over the Mitchell-Leonard fiasco, and ordered the Mitchells to appear before the board next Monday for a thorough investigation. Pinky Mitchell left his $1,000 forfeit up for another match with the champion. Pinky's doctor today said that his arm was no better and he can do no boxing for a week.

that Rickard had withheld after Wilson's fight with Bryan Downey last September.

George Engle, manager of Greb, will help Rickard force Wilson to carry out his contract to meet Greb, he wired here today. Engle sent the wire before leaving Cincinnati. He called Wilson's act outrageous, saying that he had posted a $10,000 forfeit to bid the match.

By Mae Tinee.
He hired that man to shoot me; he tried to kill me when I lay in bed helpless; he—then Ken Thornton turns to his frightened wife and points out the bruises on her arm—"did that?" Which seems just about enough justification for one man's turning on another and giving him the whaling of his life, doesn't it?

Your hero sure does land on your villain; while you carefully hidden, prehistoric lust for blood eggs him on and knows a moment's fierce disappointment that when he has finished there is life left within the worm.

"The Roof Tree" will without doubt meet with the entire approval of those who enjoy the so-called "red blooded" works of fiction. It hasn't any wine and it hasn't any song, but it has helplessness and strong men willing to engage in mortal combat over them. It has considerable plot. The suspense is well sustained. Your inborn Anglo Saxon hell fire principles clap loudly as the good goes to it and looks old sin.

Miss Breamer is pretty and pleasing; Mr. Russell convincing and not too handsome. A nice face, his, but no ad for a beauty parlor. The support has been well chosen, and, technically, the production is well put on.

The characters are all southern mountain folk and with the exception

'He'd No Objections.
A short time ago three high school teachers were attending a state teachers' conference.

During one of the intermissions we entered a store and noticed a sign displaying cigarettes which stated, "Help yourself, honor system, 1 cent each."

Just for a joke we went up and each purchased one. As we turned away a man bending over the safe. I rushed for an officer and when we returned we were followed by a large crowd. The officer arrested the man, who was my employer. I sneaked off, followed by the laughter of the crowd. R. B.

Light Was Poor.

Late one night last summer when returning from a dance, I passed the garage where I am employed as office girl. Looking in, I saw to my horror a man bending over the safe. I rushed for an officer and when we returned we were followed by a large crowd. The officer arrested the man, who was my employer. I sneaked off, followed by the laughter of the crowd. R. B.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.
Glazed Carrots.

While we are rallying all the fuel foods to our service to fit us for battling with cold, we must not forget that any diet containing one kind of fruit and one kind of vegetable each day will insure us against mineral shortage.

The fuel foods are filling. The vegetables and fruits besides flavoring the food, and alleviating thirst, more than we guess, are also our best complexion makers, our daily tonic [they beat iron], and the most wholesome and efficient laxatives possible, unless our habits are of the worst.

To make glazed carrots scrape and slice enough of the vegetables to make about a pint, add to them a little salt, a tablespoon of butter, and one of sugar, and only as much water as will cook away in a small, tightly closed vessel over a little fire. You may add a seasoning of green pepper or even of onion. You may use these as a vegetable or as a garnish, or mash as a basis for cream soup.

Distress after Eating

may follow eating your favorite foods.

To relieve this condition promptly try one or two

STUARTS Dyspepsia Tablets

after each meal.

They neutralize the acid stomach, giving the alkaline effect, the same as when in normal working order.

These tablets are sold in every drug store in the U.S. and Canada at 60c a box. Known to a host of people for 25 years as the one thing needful in an attack of indigestion.

Better Than Calomel

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't hurt the teeth like strong liquids or salts. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Headaches, "dullness" and that liver feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." They "clean" the bowels and "perk up" the spirits. Be and be.

Rub Backache away with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil!"
Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.
Lumber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" from any drug store, and, after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

F. O. B. Factory $2250. with cord tires

for 5-passenger touring

The price was advanced only once during the war. Therefore—this one big reduction puts the Stearns back to pre-war prices

We'll Prove It—!

Here's how: Let us show you signed statements from hundreds of jubilant Stearns-Knight owners in Chicago, and elsewhere, who have driven their cars in excess of 50,000 miles—and still going good. And many of these are driving their third, fourth and even fifth Stearns.

Statements of these owners include the 21 categorical points in motor car construction and operation that make for efficiency, comfort and lasting satisfaction.

There isn't a question you could ask about a motor car that Stearns-Knight owners haven't answered with convincing emphasis.

Come in and study the interesting and instructive "cutaway chassis" which shows the inside workings of our special Knight motor built to Stearns specifications by the F. B. Stearns Company in their own factory. It's a revelation in mechanical disclosure—it shows how this distinguished motor gets its positive, lasting "pull" as opposed to the "pep" that quickly peters out.

You'll see open and closed bodies that satisfy every demand for beauty, roominess, comfort and durability. And you'll see a car that the most nervous driver can easily handle through traffic or in the open—a car that goes to the service station so seldom as to be almost nil.

ABSORPTION OF BANKS CREATES ONLY A RIPPLE

Depositors' Calm Amazes
Financial Chiefs.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Completion of the absorption of the Fort Dearborn banks by the Continental and Commercial banks yesterday gave striking proof of two things. First, there was ample evidence of the soundness of Chicago's banking institutions and their ability to handle large financial situations. Second, there was proof of the coolness and confidence of Chicago's army of depositors.

The largest banking consolidation in the city's history was accomplished with a speed and method that surprised even the officers of the uniting institutions. True, there were some disturbances, such as a rather sharp break on the Chicago Stock exchange and withdrawals of deposits from smaller banks in which the Fort Dearborn bank interests had been represented. But in the main the general financial and banking situation was untroubled and there was a striking absence of uneasiness.

Moving Completed Early.
The removal of the assets and records of the Fort Dearborn banks to the Continental and Commercial banks was practically completed before banking hours. This work excited curiosity among the early morning downtown throngs. But there was no rush of depositors to the quarters of the Fort Dearborn banks.

At the Continental and Commercial banks all preparations had been made to afford every facility to the Fort Dearborn depositors and customers. The officers of these banks and also the Fort Dearborn banks arrived early and took up desks in various parts of the main banking rooms.

Sections of the cages and counters had been assigned to the cashiers and tellers of the Fort Dearborn banks and large signs announced their location. Thus when the Fort Dearborn depositors and customers began to arrive they were met with familiar faces and old acquaintances who were able to explain the situation thoroughly to those who did not fully understand the merger.

Although the banks were thronged all day, there was no disturbance, and at night the Continental and Commercial officers reported that the withdrawal of deposits had been scarcely more than normal.

Calm Surprises Reynolds.
"The day passed off really better than we hoped for—better than we thought possible," explained George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental and Commercial banks. "In fact, I am rather amazed at the little disturbance the transfer occasioned. The situation arose suddenly and there might have been some excuse for some excitement. But now I am more than ever a firm believer in the soundness of Chicago people and their prompt ability to accept a situation calmly."

Withdrawals of deposits at the Drovers' National bank and its affiliated institution, the Drovers' Trust and Savings bank, were somewhat larger than usual, but the announcement by James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago clearing house committee, that these banks were sound and would be amply supported by all the banks forestalled any serious disturbance. The Tilden interests in these banks withdrew Monday night.

The Englewood State bank was the scene of rather larger withdrawals than on the day, but the bank paid out cash steadily to all depositors who sought it, and last night several of Chicago's best known bankers stated the bank is in good condition and will be fully protected.

Tilden Issues Statement.
William A. Tilden, president of the Fort Dearborn banks, issued his first statement regarding the banks' affairs. "The reason our banks took the action they did was on account of the temporary embarrassment of Edward Tilden & Co., a corporation in which I am not now and never have been financially interested. My first duty was to our depositors, and the course taken insures their absolute protection by the best means possible, the taking over of our business by the strongest and best financial institution in the west."

No criticism of Edward Tilden & Co. is warranted by the facts. Our banks could have liquidated without loss to the depositors and with only a partial loss to our stockholders, but the method adopted was the most orderly way of handling the matter and saved everybody concerned and the public at large all anxiety."

Late in the afternoon State's Attorney Crowe invited both Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Tilden to his office for a conference. None of the conferees would discuss the interview.

"There is no question of any shady transaction," Mr. Reynolds said. "The worst that could be said is that the business judgment in some instances was not good. The whole trouble is that there were too many industrial loans."

Some Stocks Decline.
The situation of the Fort Dearborn banks caused unsettlement on the Chicago Stock exchange and there were sharp declines in the stocks of several companies with which the Tilden interests had been identified. The exchange officials, however, issued a reassuring statement.

"The announcement that the business of the Fort Dearborn banks has been taken over by the Continental and Commercial banks naturally created some nervousness in the stock market," President Walter S. Brewster said.

"There has been a certain amount of speculation, which, however, proceeded in an orderly manner and indicates the strength of the financial institutions in Chicago."

Viola, Malvolio, "Ragged Robin"

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

It is three centuries across the loop this week, from Miss Genevieve Tobin in boy's attire, betraying her heart with a wisp of song, to Miss Julia Marlowe in like disguise, voicing her wistful lines to the Duke of Illyria.

An odd experience, viewing this quaint parallel in the tricks of the theater, "Twelfth Night" was written in 1590. Yet it was the old play rather than the new that seemed to me most spontaneous and real in the use of the pretty music of the quade. For all our development in the technique of playwriting, we don't improve much on Mr. Shakespeare.

Of all the Southern-Marlowe productions "Twelfth Night" I should say, has the surest elements of popular appeal. It is gaily conceived, gorgeously costumed, and acted in a spirit of rollicking comedy. Miss Marlowe's Viola is a figure of wistful loveliness, with its alternate moods of gentleness and sly roguery. And in spite of contrast you have Mr. Sothorn's drolly pompous Malvolio, Rowland Buckstone's vociferous clowning as Sir Toby Belch, and the comic effeminate of Albert Howes as Sir Andrew Aguecheek. These extravagant roles are played con amore and with infinite gusto; their antics provide as lively a romp as any you will encounter in a year's playgoing. Frederick Lewis seems a gloomy Orsino, but his love-sick broodings, I suppose, are sufficiently in the picture.

"Twelfth Night" will be repeated this evening, at next Saturday's matinee, and at two performances week after next. Tomorrow night, "Hamlet."

MR. OLCOTT AND THE FAIRIES.

Chauncey Olcott is at the Olympic again, reviving something called "Ragged Robin," which Rida Johnson Young and Mrs. Olcott wrote for him in 1908. This finds him happily situated as a vagabond minstrel, in love with the pleasant Miss Ethel Intropidi, and proving to her and her kin what comes to mortals when they go against the faintest spell.

They drank, you see, from an enchanted spring on a day when its waters were supposed to join lovers forever. But he was a wanderer, with no home save the highway, and she was promised to the man of her father's choice, favored because his coming into the family would restore certain lost acres. So, to the wall of the banshee, the wedding was performed, with Robin pronouncing the solemn warnings.

"There's no luck in a loveless marriage!"
And he was right. Famine came, and bitter years, until Robin returned with a top hat, a monocle, and an inheritance. Then the will of 'th' wisp led him into a dim forest from which Eugene O'Neill may have got some ideas for "The Emperor Jones," and thence to the cabin in the bog where Miss Intropidi, a widow now, had found refuge.

It is a naive fantasy, peopled with fireflies and fairies, and rather better than most of the Olcott plays. There are the usual frequent interludes of song by Mr. Olcott, and one or two bits of good acting by other members of the company—notably an engaging youngster named Marie Vernon, whom you remember, perhaps, as the child actress who played with Grant Mitchell in "A Prince There Was."

Withdrawals of deposits at the Drovers' National bank and its affiliated institution, the Drovers' Trust and Savings bank, were somewhat larger than usual, but the announcement by James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago clearing house committee, that these banks were sound and would be amply supported by all the banks forestalled any serious disturbance. The Tilden interests in these banks withdrew Monday night.

The Englewood State bank was the scene of rather larger withdrawals than on the day, but the bank paid out cash steadily to all depositors who sought it, and last night several of Chicago's best known bankers stated the bank is in good condition and will be fully protected.

COUNCIL SEEKS REASON CITY HALL FAVORS "L" LINES

Wants to Know Why Cash
Due Is Not Paid.

The city council yesterday asked Corporation Counsel Ettelson why the city administration has failed to collect from the elevated lines large sums due the city for bridge construction. The council acted on motion of Ald. U. S. Schwartz, chairman of the local transportation committee, who said:

"It has been charged repeatedly that the elevated companies are enjoying immunity which no other utility is receiving at the hand of the city administration."

Long a Wonder to Aldermen.
The question asked of Mr. Ettelson is one which has been asked editorially by Tribune many times. It has also been the subject of much discussion among the aldermen, and is usually put in this form: "Why does the city administration lay off the elevated lines and concentrate all its battle strength on the surface lines?"

Ald. Schwartz's orders request Mr. Ettelson to make a report on the amounts owed to the city by the elevated companies and to inform the council what steps, if any, have been taken to collect.

One Company Owes $350,000.
"The corporation counsel should go into the federal court in the case of the Oak Park elevated and demand payment for the Lake street bridge," Ald. Schwartz said. "That court appointed a receiver for the road. The total owed by the road now amounts, at 6 per cent interest, to approximately $350,000."

"I also would like to know, and I believe this council would like to know, what steps, if any, have been taken to get a 5 cent fare from the elevated lines?"

Thus far administration leaders have been chary of discussing their intentions toward a fight for lower "L" fares.

SEEK NAME OF MAN HELD FOR CAFE SHOOTING

After twenty-four hours' investigation, mystery still surrounded the identity of the well dressed young man arrested Monday evening in Al Tearnay's cafe following a shooting affair in which one man was seriously injured. The time has come, my dear Jarroman, to turn our backs upon the horrors that have been and face a rosier future—for you are a rich man, Jarroman—a rich man.

"So I gathered from your letter," said Jarroman emotionally. "You stated no more than the bare fact."

"I would have considered it imprudent, as well as unnecessary, to give details," said Theed. "I knew the prison officials would read everything, and you might naturally not wish your affairs to be talked about. Your wealth has come through your land in Somerset."

"Thirty acres," said Jarroman reflectively. "If I remember rightly, it used to yield some eighteen pounds per year. I thought it was sold to pay your charges for my defense."

"I tried to sell it, Jarroman, in accordance with your instructions, but, if you will believe me, I could not find a buyer. See in what a strange way the finger of destiny moved! When the war broke out the government decided to put an aeroplane factory on your land. I persuaded them to pay a rental of five hundred a year."

"I thought you said—rich?" said Jarroman.

"Wait," replied Theed delightedly. "Just you wait until I've finished the tale. At the end of the war a private company took over the factory. They applied for another three acres on which to build houses for their work people. A branch line was running to the factory. I drove as hard a bargain as I could in your interests, but only raised the revenue by another five hundred—a paltry thousand a year—for something under ten acres. Those houses for the work people have never been built. Jarroman, because of his smartness by the gift of a five pound note, then I joined hands with the aeroplane company. The housing scheme was abandoned, the factory blown up, and last year your estate received twenty thousand pounds in mining royalties. That amount has already been exceeded this year, and increasing returns are expected. I have refused an offer of two hundred thousand pounds for your holding in the concern. You can count on a revenue of between twenty and thirty thousand pounds per annum—that is to say, your personal income is between four and six hundred pounds per week, my dear Jarroman."

Theed lay back on the cushions, panting with pleasure as he delivered his report. He waited for protestations of amazement from Jarroman—but none came.

"He is stunned by the good news," thought Theed; but, looking at Jarroman from the corner of his eye, he decided the latter did not look stunned. He wore the expression of a man who is carefully sizing up a difficult proposition.

"Isn't it astounding?" cried Theed.

Pedestrian Struck When Auto Skids; He May Die

William McDonald, 70 years old, 3811 Gladys avenue, was probably fatally injured last night when an automobile driven by Charles Meisner, 3752 West 26th street, skidded against him while he was crossing West Harrison street at Ogden avenue. Meisner was held. Andrew Olson, 1224 North Clark street, was struck by an east bound North avenue car at Wheeler street last night and will probably die.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In last Sunday's TRIBUNE there was included in the list of places visited by prohibition agents that of the Lincoln Tavern at Morton Grove. Prohibition agents did not visit the Lincoln Tavern.

J. C. Hoskins, vice president of the Chicago Steamship Lines, Inc., with docks at the Municipal Pier, complains of a statement in THE TRIBUNE last Saturday to the effect that there is not a regular line of steamers operating between Chicago and Buffalo. Mr. Hoskins says his company revived steamship service between Chicago and Buffalo last May under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce, conducting a regular package freight line, with three sailings a week during November. "Through rate arrangements with all eastern and western railways were completed on Oct. 25 after thirteen months' effort," Mr. Hoskins says, and they have been assured of Chicago patronage and support for the coming season.

THE VENGEANCE OF HENRY JARROMAN

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.
The first installment of this thrilling story was published yesterday. Henry Jarroman, 48 years old, has just been released from prison.

INSTALLMENT II.
Jarroman shrugged his shoulders. "It's a matter of blind luck," he said. "It has happened before." He added in a tone of the utmost conventionality: "I am obliged to you for what you have done. I hope you have made the transaction profitable to yourself also."

"I have, of course, deducted the charges and commission allowed me by the Law Society," said Theed stiffly. "I require no more than my just fee. My real recompense is the knowledge that I have been the means, however humble, of—helping the sun of prosperity to shine upon a life which hitherto has been lived in shadow."

Jarroman emitted a scornful laugh that faintly alarmed the other for his sanity. And again there was silence.

"Have you anything to tell me about my daughter?"

"The fleshy hands of the solicitor clenched. "I am not in touch with her," he answered, "though I have no doubt I could find her in a few days if you wish it. I do not know whether you are aware that, after your conviction, your wife—"

"Once and for all," cut in Jarroman, "I wish to hear nothing about my wife. I have no interest in her whatsoever. With my daughter it is otherwise. She was just beginning to babble when I last saw her. She is twenty-two now, Theed. Again came the laugh of concentrated bitterness. "I shall meet a strange young woman who will probably have changed her name to conceal the fact that I am her father. Well, this little stunt of yours in Somerset will enable me to compensate her for any disadvantages that may have resulted from her parentage. Find her, please."

"Yes, yes, assuredly. I will put the wheels in motion as soon as we reach the office. But in the meantime, my dear Jarroman, I beg you to keep your mind from the past. Look about you. Think of the glorious new life that is opening up to you."

The car was gliding down Park Lane.

"With practically unlimited wealth you have the world at your feet. It is like the magician's wand. You have but to utter a wish and it is granted."

Jarroman made a gesture of impatience as if he would still the babbling of a child.

"You don't understand, Theed," he said slowly. "That sort of thing doesn't appeal to me. The senses with which I could have appreciated it have been crushed out of me. There is nothing that money could buy that will give me the faintest flicker of pleasure, except only the freedom to come and go—and that I want, not for pleasure, but for a purpose."

There was a hint of menace in the last words that alarmed the solicitor.

"And even that," continued Jarroman, "I shall require for a very short time—before I surrender it again."

"My dear Jarroman, what do you mean?"

"I mean that shortly I shall be back in prison, and this time for a few weeks only. I have a great deal to do, and wish to begin work. I do not wish to be discourteous, my dear Theed, but this drive is boring me. I am not interested in London in the least, nor in motors, nor aeroplanes, nor houses, nor people. Do you mind if we go at once to your office and get started?"

"He's mad," was the unspoken thought of Theed as he gave the order through the speaking tube and the car turned and headed for Bedford Row.

An inventory of the estate of Harry J. O'Brien, former manager of the National Biscuit company's insurance department, which was filed in Judge Henry Horner's court yesterday, shows property valued at $500,000 which will be divided with the widow and four children. Mr. O'Brien died intestate.

ALD. LYLE SWINGS WICKED MITT AT TOMAN; MISSES

Epithet in Council Booze
Row Starts It.

Before galleries packed with "wet" and "dry" sympathizers, many of whom were women, Ald. John H. Lyle, known as the champion boxer of the city council, with a record of five victories, two via the knockout route, started a left hook for Ald. John Toman's nose at yesterday's session of the council during a debate on the prohibition question.

Toman saw the hook coming and stepped back out of the way. Lyle's fist missed its mark by three feet, and its owner, carried by the momentum of the blow, fell on Toman's desk. Lyle took his seat as Sergeant at Arms Harrah and Ald. Wilson and O'Toole rushed in to put a stop to the one round, no decision bout.

Row Over Beer Resolution.
The fistcluffs occurred during a debate on Ald. Cermak's order directing that copies of the resolution memorializing congress to permit the manufacture and sale of "whole-some beers and light wines," passed by the council a week ago, be sent to the city council of all cities with more than 25,000 inhabitants. With a request that they follow the lead of Chicago aldermen's lead.

Lyle, one of the few "dry" aldermen, had attacked the resolution vehemently, asserting that in fifty-nine cities arrests for disorderly conduct dropped from 1,869,000 to $50,000 during the first year of prohibition.

Lyle Resents Epithet.
Toman rose in reply. He referred to the dry advocates as "reformers" and used another epithet to which Ald. Lyle objected and which he afterwards referred to as "a dirty, filthy name."

Toman repeated it several times in spite of the presence of women and officials of the Anti-Saloon league in the galleries.

That was too much for Lyle. He jumped from his chair and ran the thirty feet to Toman's desk.

"You'll have to cut out that kind of talk," he shouted, as Toman stepped backward, leaving his desk in the position of a barricade.

"Do you refer to me?" insisted Lyle. "If the shoe fits, put it on," countered Toman.

Then Lyle swung. Toman went blithely ahead with his attack, but he didn't use the word again.

Wets Win on Roll Call.
When the dust had rolled away the vote showed the "drys" overwhelmingly defeated, as is usual in the city council. The vote was 50 to 7. Ald. Eaton, Guernsey, Steffen, Frankhauser, Lyle, Wilson and Garner representing dry residential wards, voting in the negative.

Another wet and dry fight developed when Ald. Cermak, leader of the anti-prohibition forces, introduced a resolution declaring that "certain alleged organizations known and called the Anti-Saloon league and the County Representation league" are lobbying in the constitutional convention in behalf of the "county unit" plan of representation, which resists Chicago's representation in the general assembly.

Ald. Olsen demanded that the resolution be sent to the judiciary committee, but Ald. Cermak's motion for a suspension of the rules was victorious 58 to 2, and the resolution was then passed with a few "drys" voting "no."

Ald. Lyle and Cermak will debate on the question, "Is Prohibition a Success?" before the City Club Friday evening.

Sister Julia's Bloomers Shocked Dad and Brother
John Rug, 3148 South Central Park avenue: "My daughter goes around the house in her bloomers and I'm afraid it will shock my 18 year old son." Judge Bugee: "My advice would be that you buy her a bathrobe: $25 and costs six months on probation." Rug created a disturbance Sunday and was arrested on complaint of his wife and 17 year old daughter, Julia.

Mayor's Suit Against Tribune Starts March 15
Circuit Judge David M. Brothers yesterday set the trial of Mayor Thompson's $500,000 libel suit against THE TRIBUNE for March 15. Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, for THE TRIBUNE, suggested the date and Attorney Chester E. Cleveland, after speaking of the large number of important cases in which he is engaged, consented on behalf of the mayor.

Kalamazoo Contractor Sought by Chicago Police
Chicago police were asked yesterday to search for Frederick Fox, contractor, of Kalamazoo, who disappeared on Dec. 23 while en route, presumably, to Riverdale, Ill. His wife is protected at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Herman, 1701 Chase avenue, Rogers Park. She believes he was robbed and slain.

KERNEL COOTIE—A STUDY IN EXPRESSIONS

BUSINESS NEWS IN BRIEF

(Copyright 1922, by Fairchild News Service.)

NEW YORK.—Early but not overwhelming response greeted retail "white sale" offerings today in various large centers. Severe competition to liquidate completely winter stocks of ready-to-wear was particularly apparent. Low prices were reported on pile fabrics.

NEW YORK.—Dry goods jobbers, preparing to enter the New York market, probably will be disappointed in their expectations to obtain desirable cotton goods at low prices. Mills have no cheap stock accumulations.

NEW YORK.—January sale reductions in men's clothing Tuesday were far wider in scope than last week. Branded lines shared liberally in the price cutting in various markets.

BRADFORD, England.—The wool market opened the New Year strongly. Merinos were still tending upward. Crossbreds were stronger than last week.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—Textile mill dividends showed a startling drop in 1921. Last year they totaled $5,122,875 in this district. The year before they were $9,886,500.

NEW YORK.—English, Scotch, and Irish linens Tuesday were advanced 10 per cent by importers, who were unable to stand the increased costs resulting from the gains of pound sterling.

BUENOS AIRES.—The wool demand has entered boom proportions. It is expected that the entire available stock will be absorbed by August. Coarse crossbred prices have advanced 15 per cent within a fortnight. Total exports now double those of a year ago at this time.

NEW YORK.—The heavy buying season of department stores has begun. One large Brooklyn concern offered $600,000 cash for specially priced merchandise. Buyers from all centers are arriving.

NEW YORK.—The silk market is booming with prices rising. The material market was depleted before Christmas by huge belated orders originating with retailers and passed along by the manufacturers.

BERLIN.—American department stores are planning to change their representation here. Many now represented by exporters are expected soon to open their own offices. Large American orders for German pile fabrics are expected.

NEW YORK.—Heavy paper parsons, similar to Japanese, waterproofed, are springing into demand. Good qualities are available in the wholesale market to retail at around 45¢.

NEW YORK.—Suggestions are heard in manufacturing circles that silk gloves can be purchased now at lower wholesale prices than later on. Predictions are based on $1 per pound rise of raw silk.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Cotton goods steady with a fair demand for gray cloths, sheetings, and specialties for the manufacturing trade. Cotton yarns higher; burials firm; silks quiet.

NEW YORK.—Dry goods jobbers, preparing to enter the New York market, probably will be disappointed in their expectations to obtain desirable cotton goods at low prices. Mills have no cheap stock accumulations.

NEW YORK.—January sale reductions in men's clothing Tuesday were far wider in scope than last week. Branded lines shared liberally in the price cutting in various markets.

BRADFORD, England.—The wool market opened the New Year strongly. Merinos were still tending upward. Crossbreds were stronger than last week.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—Textile mill dividends showed a startling drop in 1921. Last year they totaled $5,122,875 in this district. The year before they were $9,886,500.

NEW YORK.—English, Scotch, and Irish linens Tuesday were advanced 10 per cent by importers, who were unable to stand the increased costs resulting from the gains of pound sterling.

BUENOS AIRES.—The wool demand has entered boom proportions. It is expected that the entire available stock will be absorbed by August. Coarse crossbred prices have advanced 15 per cent within a fortnight. Total exports now double those of a year ago at this time.

NEW YORK.—The heavy buying season of department stores has begun. One large Brooklyn concern offered $600,000 cash for specially priced merchandise. Buyers from all centers are arriving.

NEW YORK.—The silk market is booming with prices rising. The material market was depleted before Christmas by huge belated orders originating with retailers and passed along by the manufacturers.

BERLIN.—American department stores are planning to change their representation here. Many now represented by exporters are expected soon to open their own offices. Large American orders for German pile fabrics are expected.

NEW YORK.—Heavy paper parsons, similar to Japanese, waterproofed, are springing into demand. Good qualities are available in the wholesale market to retail at around 45¢.

NEW YORK.—Suggestions are heard in manufacturing circles that silk gloves can be purchased now at lower wholesale prices than later on. Predictions are based on $1 per pound rise of raw silk.

Total Bonded Debt (This issue only).....20,000,000
Population (1920 Census).....5,759,394
TOTAL BONDED DEBT LESS THAN 1/4 OF 1%

A legal investment for Savings Banks and Trust Funds in Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and elsewhere.

These bonds are part of a total issue of $25,000,000, authorized by an Amendment to the Constitution of the State, ratified by an overwhelming majority of the people. THEY CONSTITUTE A DIRECT OBLIGATION OF THE STATE. The Amendment requires the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to levy a tax sufficient in amount for the retirement of the bonds and the payment of the interest thereon. It further recites that said bonds and the interest as income are exempt from all taxes levied by the State of Ohio or any taxing division thereof.

These are the only bonds issued by the State of Ohio in more than fifty years and constitute the only debt. Under the Constitution, all bonds of the political subdivisions of the State issued subsequent to January 1, 1913, are taxable. It is estimated that this offering of $20,000,000 will be sufficient to meet all the requirements of the Amendment, in which event, there can be no more tax free bonds issued by the State except by constitutional Amendment.

The New York Times.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special].—If the markets on the first business day of January were supposed to strike the note for the year's business, today's movement of prices would hardly have been a sheer cliff, for stocks declined, bonds drifted uncertainly, foreign exchange went lower and the wheat and cotton markets broke sharply.

But the idea that, except for a downward trend of money rates after the Fed-erall settlements, January markets represent anything else but continuance of winter conditions already well developed, is not seriously entertained by anybody. The larger influences which shape the financial situation of the country are not the approach of spring.

Today's markets, moreover, were affected by a particular incident which would have had the same general results on the markets if it had occurred at any other time. This influence was the taking over of the two Ford Dearborn instruments by other Chicago banks. Regardless of its relation to the financial position as a whole, it may at once be said of the occurrence that the manner in which the unannounced move was met by the community is as distinct a matter of reassurance as was the action of the banks in the much more disturbing

Merchants Bank of the Americas affair

last week.

The first inference drawn from both occasions undoubtedly had to do with the fact that the market was not unduly concerned with the second of a year and a half ago, but the second

of a year and a half ago, but the second

CHRISTMAS GIFT OF REALTY NETS RECORD, $110,000

BY AL CHASE.

Two years ago William D. McJunkin, president of the McJunkin Advertising company, made his wife a Christmas present of a deed to the 155125 vacant lot at the northeast corner of Marshfield avenue and Howard street. Yesterday Mrs. McJunkin realized $110,000 cash on her gift by selling it to Edward J. Morris. This is at the rate of $916.66 a front foot on Howard, claimed to be a new record for that neighborhood. Mr. McJunkin bought two blocks of frontage in what was then No. Man's land, back in 1913. His gift was part of it.

Mr. Morris is one of a syndicate which plans to improve with a high grade building, but nothing definite has been decided. Charles W. Ferguson, Co. represented Mrs. McJunkin and Albert L. Riemenschneider of the General Realty company the buyer.

Sheridan Corner Leased.
Walter S. Bogie, coal merchant, has leased to Mary P. Schmitt for ninety-nine years the northwest corner of Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard at a reported term rental of $1,165,000 net. The property is 165x132, improved with a twenty-four flat building. Mrs. Schmitt intends within five years to replace the present structure with a store and office building. L. W. Du Vall of C. P. Curran Jr.'s office and Mr. Curran represented both parties.

William H. Loebe was installed as president of the Cook County Real Estate board last night at the annual meeting. John R. O'Connor was installed as vice president, James M. Kennedy as secretary, and A. L. Riemenschneider as treasurer.

The regular monthly meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board will be held this afternoon at 2 p. m.

Buy Beacon Street Flats.
Charles Browning, identified for several years with Riverside park, has bought the nineteen flats at 4440-48 Beacon street, 100x145, from James and William H. Moorehead for a reported $135,000, the sellers taking back a $90,000 mortgage and North Dakota land. Pace & Co. represented both parties.

The three stores and thirteen flats at the southeast corner of St. Lawrence and 47th have been sold by Benjamin F. De Muth to Max J. Schmidt for a reported $42,000 through Frels & Price. The same brokers report the sale of the twenty-one flats at the southeast corner of Calumet and 58th for Mr. De Muth to Mayo Friedman for $44,000.

The Charles R. Morris estate has sold to Philip Gorman the nine flats at 5535-39 Hyde Park boulevard, 90x150, for a reported $50,000, subject to $25,000. Charles E. Fox of J. J. Carroll & Co. made the sale and will manage the property.

Building Permits

Twenty-two building permits were issued yesterday, among them being the following: Federal st., 535 1/2 story brick addition to bakery; Gordon Bakery Co., owner; Walter A. & Bernhardt, arch.; J. Rodas, mason. $35,000. Sanborn st., 3 story brick addition to flat; W. Wrightman, owner and carp.; V. W. Chelan, arch.; V. Schmitt, mason. $6,000.

Do you understand foreign exchange?

THE subject is a surprisingly simple one, yet many fail to realize the unusual investment opportunity presented by the purchase of foreign government and municipal securities as a result of the existing depreciated currency values.

"Foreign Exchange Explained"

Is a valuable encyclopedia on a topic with which the American public should be more familiar. It tells how normal rates of exchange are determined and points out the reason for prevailing low quotations.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bu wheat, including hard winter and Manitoba mainly to the United Kingdom, and 400,000 to 500,000 bu corn were reported at the seaboard yesterday. Chicago sold 175,000 bu corn and Omaha and Minneapolis 100,000 to 200,000 bu to the seaboard, while Omaha sold 300,000 bu hard winter to the Gulf. Domestic shipping sales of wheat, 10,000 bu; corn, 175,000 bu; and oats, 100,000 bu. Deliveries on January contracts, 10,000 bu oats.

While cash wheat prices were generally unchanged as compared with the futures, St. Louis was off 2¢ for the day, Kansas City 2¢ and Omaha 2¢. No. 2 hard Chicago brought 24¢ over and No. 2 hard 24¢ under May. Local receipts, 22 cars. Cash corn at Chicago declined 1/2¢ to 24¢ and closed at 24¢. No. 2 grades at 24¢ to 25¢. Receipts, 583 cars. Outside markets, 1/2¢ to 1¢ lower.

Offerings of cash oats fair with prices 1/2¢ to 1¢ lower. No. 2 white brought 24¢ and No. 2 white 41¢ under May. Receipts, 157 cars.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It is seldom that so many false and unfounded reports are circulated in the grain market as appeared yesterday. Waves of selling of large volume followed each fractional decline, and the loss of 7c from the top on the wheat was attended by the most drastic liquidation in wheat, with the day's range as large as was that of the last week. Margins were called in a most reckless way and all responded to. Late in the afternoon all margins were reported up in the clearing house and the trade felt easier.

There was no ground for the indiscriminate reports about the trade for as investigations went. Traders who speculated then laid themselves liable to prosecution under the Capper-Tracey law, which is explicit as to the circulation of false and malicious reports to affect market values. Officials of the Board of Trade are to make an investigation and President J. P. Drish said last night that members and their clerks who start or repeat reports of which they have no positive knowledge will be severely disciplined.

Heavy liquidation in grain, stocks, and cotton by brokerage houses left the trade in better shape at the last. Eastern houses who have held the largest lines of wheat have been unloading since last week, when the government report increased the crop figures 54,000,000 bu, and the failure of E. W. Wagner & Co. started a liquidating movement that caused the strongest interest in the trade to make supporting orders from time to time. Their buying was in evidence at times yesterday.

It would not surprise close observers to see a rally in the grain markets today, following the drastic liquidation.

One feature of the trading was the continued buying of jobs lots of wheat by country traders at 1/4c over the market for 5,000 bu lots.

Country offerings of corn were said to be liberal and the seaboard demand fair. Trading is now on a May basis, with No. 2 mixed 40c and No. 3 grades 77 1/2c under May, and No. 4 at 81c under. No. 3 white oats were 44 1/2c and No. 3 white 42 1/2c under May.

Contract stocks of wheat in public elevators in Chicago increased 9,000 bu last week, corn increased 153,000 bu, and oats decreased 38,000 bu. Aggregate stock of wheat is 1,196,000 bu, corn 4,111,000 bu, and oats 6,137,000 bu.

"Australian wheat harvest is early," said a Sydney, N. S. W., cable to Bartlett-trader company. "Yield disappointing. Will probably have a surplus of 80,000,000 bu for all Australia." Shipments for the 1921 season were 104,000,000 bu. Broomhall reported one-half to six inches of rain yesterday in New South Wales.

The case of Shaler & Stream against Fahy & Son is to be arbitrated. The Oscar White hearing has been deferred by the Board of Trade directors for one week. E. M. Hynes' case is set for Jan. 24.

Sales of 600,000 bu of hard winter wheat were made at the Gulf Friday and Bremen room booked. It is understood, for Bremen, but in New York it was said that the grain was destined for Austria.

The Grain corporation will receive offers of cash corn for export for Russian relief purposes by wire until 3 p. m. today. The quantities taken will depend on the price and the availability of shipping.

Charles I. Branton, who has been connected with Stein, Alstair & Co. for years, has been admitted to partnership. John Lewis is to be admitted to partnership in E. Lewis & Co. A. J. Barrett and J. Frank Bittle have withdrawn from the firm of E. Lewis & Co. A. J. Barrett becoming a pit broker.

Horace A. Alford Jr. was elected to membership in the Board of Trade yesterday.

Heavy lines of oats were let go yesterday by operators who have been good buyers for a week past.

The Passing Opportunity

WITH the advent of 1922, the biggest opportunities for profitable investment are passing. Within the past few months the highest types of Safe Securities, which have been selling at prices to yield from 7 per cent to 8 1/2 per cent, have advanced to points where the present yields are as low as 5 per cent to 8 per cent.

Among those still yielding liberal interest returns, we call the investors' special attention to:—

	DUE	YIELD
BATES MACHINE & TRACTOR CO. ....	1923-1927	8.00%
8% Serial Gold Notes .....
HOLEPROOF HOSIERY CO. ....	1931	7.20%

We especially recommend these securities to those investors who desire to avail themselves of this opportunity—perhaps the last within our lifetime—to buy SAFE SECURITIES at prices that yield very attractive INTEREST RETURNS.

We own and offer the above securities subject to prior sale and change in price.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to purchase and operate in connection with its own system the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads. The St. Paul plans to acquire from the St. Louis Union Trust company $1,000,000 par value in stock and $1,000,000 par value in first mortgage bonds, and to the trust company $1,000,000 of the bonds after guaranteeing their payment, interest, and principal.

The board of directors of the Burlington has authorized the purchase of 7,300 freight refrigerator units. Included in the purchase are 400 stock cars, 1,300 refrigerator cars, 1,000 box cars, and 3,000 composite coal cars.
